

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID TO BRYAN AT DAYTON WITH SIMPLE FUNERAL

GREAT COMMONER HAILED AS MARTYR IN RELIGIOUS CAUSE

Funeral Eulogy Delivered by Methodist Minister, Whose Church Bryan Attended Sunday.

FUNERAL PLANS STILL UNSETTLED

Cortege Leaves Dayton This Morning for Arlington, Where Body Will Rest.

Dayton, Tenn., July 28.—(AP)—The mountain folk of eastern Tennessee, applauding speakers of his last great battle, paid their final tribute today to "Brother Bryan," fearless champion of their Christian faith.

Passing in an endless line, hundreds of men, women and children, who watched with affectionate eyes the last days of the great commoner, looked for the last time today at the placid face of their leader as he lay in an humble Dayton home, and glimpsed through the glass top of his casket those firm set lips whence eloquence often flowed to stir the hearts and limbs of men to action.

Later, as the shadows lengthened on the sultry summer day, they stood again in a patient multitude upon the lawn to hear a minister speak a funeral eulogy and praise God for the life and works of William Jennings Bryan.

Rites As Fundamentalist.

It was Bryan, the clear-voiced herald of religious fundamentalism, who received the last rites here today. Thursday and Friday in Washington, his countrymen will pay high honor to the democratic chieftain, presidential candidate and former secretary of state. In Arlington cemetery, then, the well-loved leader, colonel of volunteers in the war with Spain, will be laid to enduring rest among the military heroes of the nation.

Tonight the widow—embodiment of amazing fortitude in time of mighty sorrow—from her rolling chair was preparing her household for the departure tomorrow toward the country's capital. The special car for the funeral party arrived in Dayton late today. In the morning, at 8:40 o'clock, it will leave for Chattanooga, whence, after an interval in which the public there will view the body, the dead leader and his escort will go to Washington, by way of Knoxville, Bristol, Roanoke and Lynchburg. The journey will be all the way over the Southern railway lines on a scheduled train, which should cross the Potomac shortly before 7:30 o'clock Thursday morning.

Members of Funeral Party.

In the party besides Mrs. Bryan are Mrs. Ruth Owen, the commoner's daughter, her husband, Major Benjamin Owen, of the British army; S. Bryan Jennings, Jacksonville, cousin of the commoner; Colonel P. H. Callahan, Louisville; William E. Thompson, secretary to Mr. Bryan; Wallace Haggard, Dayton lawyer and friend of the Bryan family; Mrs. C. C. Stevens, housekeeper, and William H. McCarty, chauffeur for the Bryan family. Funeral arrangements at Washington.

Police Officer Joins Burglar Victims' Lists

Lieutenant T. E. Lockhart Reports Loss of Valuable Gold Watch.

That even the police are not immune to the depredations of Atlanta's burglar fraternity was shown Tuesday morning when County Police Lieutenant T. E. Lockhart reported that his residence, at 57 Park avenue, had been entered and a gold watch stolen.

Three other persons also reported the loss of watches. They were F. M. Harmon, of 95 Whitehall street; Will Stinson, of 14 West Fifth street; and George Green, of 273 South Gordon street. Mr. Green also reported the loss of a valuable gold chain, with a fraternity pendant and knife.

The home of Harry Vaughn, 66 Penn avenue, was entered and burglars escaped with a platinum bar pin, set with five diamonds; a savings bank containing between $5 and $6 and a pearl handled pistol.

H. F. Kinnott, of 33 Albion avenue, also reported the loss of a valuable bar pin set with diamonds.

A rifle was stolen from the home of C. S. Fisher, 544 Cascade avenue.

George Remus Leaves 'Hole' At U.S. Prison

Cincinnati Bootleg King Is Back on Job in Library Again.

George Remus, Cincinnati bootleg king, who last Friday was placed in solitary confinement on restricted diet at the Atlanta federal prison, where he is serving a two-year sentence on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws, has been released from the "hole" it was learned Tuesday.

Remus was given a hearing before prison officials on charges of having "bootlegged" a quantity of steak and eggs into his cell. A guard is said to have found the contraband food and Remus was placed in the "hole."

After Mrs. Remus learned of the misfortune of her husband, she reported to have telegraphed him her condolences and to have advised him to "do what they ask you to do."

Tuesday, Remus smiled and showed books into the shelves in the large library, where he has been assigned since he was returned to the prison from Athens.

Of course he was not interviewed—that's against prison rules, and prison officials declined to comment on his reinstatement.

Remus is due 144 days of good time, and this violation of prison rules, it was learned. He is expected to leave the prison September 2.

Remus is under indictment at St. Louis on several liquor charges, and may have to stand trial there. He was an important government witness before the grand jury in the recent prison bribe trials held here.

Warden Snook Tuesday declined to verify the report that Remus is out of the "hole."

ATLANTA WOMAN KILLED BY TRUCK

Mrs. J. M. Carver, 437 Highland Avenue, Struck by Heavy Machine as She Crosses Dixie Highway.

Marietta, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—Mrs. J. M. Carver, of 437 Highland avenue, Atlanta, was instantly killed this morning at 11:30 o'clock at the Jonesville stop, two miles south of Marietta on the Dixie highway, when she was struck by a heavy truck driven by Ryburn Nix, of Marietta.

According to witnesses, Mrs. Carver was traveling north in an automobile and stopped the car on the right side of the road, alighted and as she walked around the front of the car and started across the road to a store on the opposite side, she was struck by the truck, which was also traveling north. Witnesses state that although Nix applied the brakes, Mrs. Carver was struck and her neck broken before the truck could be stopped.

The body was brought to Marietta by John S. Dobbins and Sons, undertakers, and was later removed to Atlanta.

Nix was arrested, charged with manslaughter, and was released on $500 bond.

Mrs. Carver was accompanied in the automobile by her mother, Mrs. E. M. Carver, and a small grand-daughter, both of Atlanta.

Funeral services for Mrs. Carver will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the Mizpah Methodist church of Rome.

She is survived by her husband, J. M. Carver; father, J. H. Barnwell, of Atlanta, Ala.; a sister, Mrs. L. N. Gilbert, of Atlanta; two daughters, Mrs. J. T. Gray, of Rome; Mrs. O. W. Largin, of Brookwood, Ala.; Mrs. J. F. Argo, Mrs. H. T. Lowery, and Mrs. Enof Massey, all of Atlanta; and two sons, H. N. Carver, of Atlanta, and W. C. Carver, of Miami, Florida.

BONDING DISTRICT BILL IS APPROVED

Measure Allows Counties To Form Districts and Issue Highway Improvement Bonds.

The senate constitutional amendments committee Tuesday afternoon favorably reported a bill allowing two or more counties to form a road district and issue bonds to be retired from the state gasoline tax. This is for the purpose of building more state roads, Senator A. G. Foster, of the 20th, author of the bill, declared.

The educational committee of the senate reported favorably three bills. One provides for an assistant for the state school auditor; another allows independent school districts to dissolve and become a part of the county school system after a referendum of voters of the district so affected, and the third authorizes the state board of education to develop standards for construction of school buildings throughout the state.

FAR EAST ACCORD IS GIVEN SETBACK BY ENVOY'S DEATH

Unexpected Demise of Ambassador to Japan Revives Old Problems for President Coolidge.

CHINESE DISPUTE IS ALSO INVOLVED

President May Be Slow To Pick Successor—Bancroft Had Smoothed Out Relationships.

Washington, July 28.—President Coolidge faces another problem in the far east in selection of a successor to Edgar A. Bancroft, ambassador to Japan, who died in Tokyo Tuesday.

Bancroft was sent to Japan last November as a conciliator and messenger of peace to smooth out the ill feeling aroused there by passage of the Japanese exclusion act by the last congress. He was also to pave the way for Japan's joining in another limitation of armaments conference.

Bancroft had made an excellent beginning in restoring amicable relations and allaying the bad feeling caused by the exclusion act, and this work will now be interrupted by his untimely death. As a result much will depend on the personality of his successor, upon whom will devolve the responsibility of carrying on Bancroft's work, which was highly regarded by the state department.

"My message to you," Bancroft said in a speech when he assumed office in Japan, "is to have faith in Japan and America and to judge them by their past records and their fifty years of unbroken friendship and helpfulness."

LOVER, RIVAL AND POLICE SERGEANT KILLED IN RICHMOND BY BOY, 18, WHO RUNS AMUCK.

Richmond, Va., July 28.—(AP)—His jealousy for Mrs. Vivian Tomlin Peers, with whom he had lived as man and wife for some time, led Rudolph H. Britt, 18, to run amuck today, slay the woman and his alleged rival, H. G. Carter, restaurateur, and so seriously wound Detective Sergeant J. Harvey Burke, that he died later at a hospital, and severely wound Willis Britt, the youth confessed to police late today.

Britt is suffering from flesh wounds which physicians consider serious.

The shooting was the aftermath of a police court session this morning when Mrs. Peers was arraigned on a charge by Disse that she was a person not of good fame, while Disse was in court to answer a peace bond warrant by her father, that he had threatened to kill the restaurateur.

After shooting the woman, Burke and Britt on a residential street, the youth fled in Britt's automobile down town, where he entered Carter's restaurant and, without a word, shot him down. Carter died instantly. Mrs. Peers expired while an ambulance rushed her to a hospital.

Police said Mrs. Peers asked to go to Disse's home for some clothing and that Britt consented to drive them in his automobile.

As Disse was about to leave the court he was served with a warrant by Detective Burke charging him with having, Swann, a Chicago attorney, as mentioned as possible appointee, if a political selection is made.

President Coolidge has been considering Mondell for a government post. Swann was appointed recently by President Coolidge as a delegate to the proposed Chinese customs conference, which probably will meet in the fall. If the appointment were long delayed, as in the case of Bancroft's selection, it would be a serious blow to Swann.

WORK WILL BEGIN ON BELL STREET UNDERPASS TODAY

Definite assurance of opening of new traffic thoroughfare connecting the south side with Decatur street.

The underpass will cost approximately $125,000, of which the railroad affected have agreed to pay $65,000, while the city will bear the remainder of the expense.

The wooden bridge which formerly spanned the railroad tracks at that point already has been torn down.

Trio Is Found Dead in Hotel; Inquiry Begun

Man Believed To Have Poisoned Two Youths, Then Ended His Own Life.

New Haven, Conn., July 28.—(AP) Two boys and a man were found dead in a room at the Flanagan hotel here today after a door had been broken down to gain entrance to the room, which they had occupied since Sunday. They were last seen Monday night when the man went to a nearby store to buy food.

The man registered as Mike Sepencupa, of Providence, R. I.

The boys were about seven and 12 years old. Their bodies were lying on the bed, fully clothed. The man's body was on the floor doubled up as if he had suffered convulsions.

Three glasses which had contained gingerale were found in the room. Coroner Eli Mix and Medical Examiner Kowalewski began an investigation.

The police believe the boys were sons of the man. The unfinished letter was partly translated and it was found to be addressed to the man's mother. He said he was tired of living and believed that "this would be the end." Police expressed the opinion that the man poisoned the boys and then himself. They, however, awaited an opinion from the coroner.

Bryan Resignation Due To Alteration of Note

CLAIMED WILSON DID IT WITHOUT HIS CONSENT

Portland, Ore., July 28.—(AP)—Miller, of Portland, an intimate friend of the late William Jennings Bryan, today gave an account that Bryan told him in 1920 why he happened to quit the cabinet of President Wilson. It had nothing to do with the president's notes to Germany.

Miller said Mr. Bryan told him the United States was having trouble with Austria during the summer of 1915, and that he prepared a note which Mr. Wilson approved. Bryan sent it to the cable office after delivering a copy to the Austrian ambassador, Dr. Constantin Theodore Dumba, with the statement that the note to Austria would be the same as the copy Dr. Dumba received.

Dr. Dumba later called at the state department in an angry mood and said the note as received by his government was different from that which he had received from Mr. Bryan.

Later Mr. Bryan got the original copy from the cable office and he is quoted as saying:

"To my mortification I found that President Wilson had obtained the copy from the cable office before it was sent and had marked out many of the clauses of mine and had inserted in his own handwriting a great deal of matter I knew nothing about."

"I went to the president and offered no explanation why he had not consulted me about making the changes after he had oked the note. I saw there was nothing to do but resign, which I did. As the president did not give out why I had tendered my resignation, I did not think I should do so. The world has the idea I resigned on account of the president's note to Germany. Let it think so."

Bryan's resignation was accepted June 8, 1915, and Robert Lansing was appointed in his place.

DANIELS' VERSION VERY DIFFERENT.

Raleigh, N. C., July 28.—(AP)—High lights in a friendship with William Jennings Bryan, extending over a third of a century were recounted here today by Josephus Daniels in a statement in which he eulogized the commoner as a man who by his "soul of sincerity; ambitious for power, not for himself, but that he might promote the common weal," and one whose "life was an open book," with no dark corners to conceal.

The former secretary of the navy, who was associated in the Wilson cabinet with Bryan, recounted an episode which he said manifested the spirit of Bryan toward all his friends. Bryan had submitted his resignation as secretary of state to President Wilson and it had been accepted.

"I think you owed it to our long friendship to tell me of your intention before submitting your resignation," Mr. Daniels told the retiring secretary of state when he showed him the letter to the president and his reply.

Purposely Withheld It.

"I purposely withheld it from you," answered Mr. Bryan, "because I knew you would seek to dissuade me. I was compelled to follow my conscience. You have a great work to do here, and I did not wish you to be embarrassed in the least by what I must do."

"Bryan made more speeches for Wilson in 1916 in the pivotal west than he had ever made for himself," stated Mr. Bryan.

"Wilson is president," he said to me one day, "and it is his administration. It is fortunate that he leads for real progress and we can work together." And this while some of Wilson's friends were unfriendly to the secretary and unjust also. But even when they differed, as big and sincere men must, Wilson always had the highest respect for him and regretfully accepted his resignation.

Wilson Sorry of Resignation.

"Bryan had informed me of his purpose before he wrote his resignation. I should have omitted no effort to have dissuaded him from it."

"I wish to heaven he had," replied the president.

President Wilson would like to have included Bryan in the peace commission which he appointed at the close of the world war, but decided that such an appointment would have been made to him by Mr. Daniels, then secretary of the navy.

"I wish I could," Daniels, replied.

THREE ARE SLAIN BY JEALOUS YOUTH HANGS ON SECURITY

Swampscott, Mass., July 28.—(AP) Consumption of the European security pact, in the opinion of President Coolidge, would lay a broad foundation for further disarmament.

Published reports that the president had given up hope for another armament conference were denied today at the summer white house, although it was pointed out that conditions in Europe are not yet propitious for initiating a definite move for a conference.

It was stated that there had been no change in the status of the proposal which thus far has been confined to preliminary and rather indefinite suggestions from the administration that it would make an effort to have a conference called whenever there appeared to be any likelihood of its going through to a successful termination.

It was reiterated at White Court that President Coolidge, although hopeful that another armament conference can be arranged, intends to bide his time until European conditions become as stable as possible. He realizes that there probably never will be perfect conditions for another conference, but he believes no good could come from an effort to hold one until the situation abroad is such as to give the movement a reasonable promise of being successful.

One development after another in Europe, all designed to restore order and friendly relations, has served to postpone action on the part of the Washington government. President Coolidge did not want to inject the armament question into the Dawes plan during this formation and thought it inadvisable to press his proposal while the plan was being put in operation, he decided it would be best to hold his proposal in abeyance during the Geneva arms conference and now is of the opinion that action should await the putting into effect of the security agreement.

The security pact, in the president's opinion, in no way disposes of the armament question and the field is left open for discussion of this question at an international conference in which the United States would take a leading part.

HOUSE BOMBARDED, SAYS ONE PARTICIPANT Before Crowd on Peachtree

Two young women settled a dispute with knives late Tuesday night at the junction of Peachtree, Broad and Luckie streets, before a large group of excited spectators.

The combatants, giving the names of Mrs. Ethel Holcombe, 26, of 80 East Ellis street, and Mrs. Billie Stephens, 22, of 265 North Jackson street, were taken to Grady hospital, where Mrs. Holcombe remained with a deep gash in the left arm. Mrs. Stephens, following treatment for scratch wounds, was taken to police station where charges of disorderly conduct and stabbing were docketed against her. She later was released under $200 bond.

Detectives J. Hiram Davis and L. H. Statterfield, who are conducting an investigation, declared they would arrest Mrs. Holcombe on a similar charge as soon as she was released from the hospital.

The fight, according to Mrs. Stephens, was the outgrowth of ill feeling which had existed since she left the home of Mrs. Holcombe several days ago to move into the Jackson street apartment. She stated that she had called for police protection at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning when Mrs. Holcombe, Miss Dorothy Scott, 24, also of the Ellis street address, and others had bombarded her new home with bricks and other missiles.

At the time the fight was in progress, Detective H. C. Newton, assistant chief of the vice squad, was driving his car down North Jackson street, saw a woman crawling through a window. He went to investigate and says he found the woman, Miss Scott, was busy wrecking the entire apartment, which was occupied by Mrs. Stephens.

Miss Scott was taken to police station, where charges of drunk and disorderly conduct were docketed against her.

ITALIAN Mobs Stone Former Cabinet Chief

Ex-Premier Orlando Attacked After Address Against Fascist Leaders.

Rome, July 28.—Fascist mobs attacked former Premier Orlando with sticks and stones at Palermo Tuesday following a speech in which Orlando had urged the election of anti-fascist candidates in the municipal election during August 2.

The fascists attacked Orlando's motor and a free-for-all fight resulted. Carbineers cleared the square, permitting Orlando to be driven home. Stones and clubs were hurled at the machine en route but there were no serious results.

Palermo is feverish with excitement, according to dispatches.

NEARLY TWO MILLION POUNDS OF TOBACCO SOLD ON OPENING DAY

$70,000,000 ROAD BOND AND GRANGER PLANS APPROVED

House Constitutional Amendments Committee Sends Both Measures to Floor for Fight.

MEMBERS READY TO OPPOSE BILLS

Granger Bill Would Divide State Into Thirteen Highway Zones and Allow Bond Issues.

Two of the proposed plans for highway expansion in this state were given favorable votes by the house committee on constitutional amendments Tuesday. One of the bills is the Granger zoning plan. The other provides for a $70,000,000 state bond issue for roads.

The action of the house committee was in marked contrast to that of the senate constitutional amendments committee on Monday, which latter body returned an adverse report on the $70,000,000 highway bond bill and the Granger highway zone measure.

The favorable action taken by the house committee was with the distinct understanding that members of the committee would not be bound on the floor of the house by the committee's action. Representative Culpepper, of Fayette, who made the motion to report one of the bills, stated emphatically that he would fight the bill on the house floor. The attitude of committee members was that the bills were of such importance that they ought to go before the entire membership of the house.

Two bond issue bills were introduced in the house, one by Representative Wood, of Spalding, the other by Representative Harris, of Jefferson. A subcommittee took the two bills, ironed out the differences, and today reported a substitute bond issue bill. This was the bill given a favorable vote by the committee.

The zoning plan, introduced by the Chatham delegation, would cut the state into 13 zones, with a view to construction of 13 through highways, one in each zone. Such zones would be political subdivisions, and would be empowered to issue bonds for road construction.

The committee also acted favorably on a bill by Representative Zellars, of Hart, which would allow two or more counties to form a highway district for the construction of roads. Such districts might issue bonds for road construction in the district.

The committee refused to give a favorable vote to a bill which would amend the constitution as to authorize the passage of general laws by the legislature, under which the counties and municipalities might make their own local laws. A measure by Representative Burdin, of Marion, of a similar nature was killed in the committee some days ago. The committee acted unfavorably Tuesday on a measure drawn by a subcommittee as a substitute.

A constitutional amendment proposal, which would allow expenditure of the state's funds for collection of vital statistics was given a favorable report.

Soldier Goes Under Knife For 41st Time

Frank Hasselberger, World War Hero, Has Hope of Recovery.

New York, July 28.—(AP)—Frank Hasselberger is preparing for his forty-first operation in the last seven years. Army surgeons determined to put Hasselberger together again so that he looks and feels as he did before he was torn almost to pieces in France seven years ago, will operate on him again at the Walter Reed hospital in Washington next week.

Hasselberger enlisted in the regular army and was one of the first men sent to France.

On September 28, 1918, the section of trench in which he was stationed was bombed by German airmen and he was taken to a first-aid station half blinded and apparently dead. There was a piece of steel in almost every square inch of his body.

The Walter Reed hospital surgeons decided to reconstruct what was left of Hasselberger's body. They restored his sight completely and then devoted themselves to skin grafting operations and plastic surgery on his body. Forty operations over a period of seven years were performed on all parts of his body.

Hasselberger while unable to move about freely, sees perfectly and he has hope.

"After a couple of dozen more operations," he said today, "they figure they'll be able to start work in earnest on me."

BRITISH MINE ROW CLOUDED IN DOUBT

Operators Believed To Have Rejected Premier's Plan—Time for Strike Only Few Hours Off.

BY CHARLES M. McCAIN.

London, July 28.—Forty-eight hours before 1,000,000 British miners will strike, unless Premier Baldwin is able to compose the immediate differences of the miners and operators. Great Britain is torn with rumors of what actually is transpiring behind the scenes and is harried by premonitions of industrial disaster.

Premier Baldwin conferred with his cabinet and then with the mine operators Tuesday, and from the latter conference the operators walked out looking glum. Wednesday the premier will see the miners' representatives before they convene with the operators in a joint conference under the chairmanship of W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty. This conference is vital; on its results seems to depend the answer to the question every Briton is asking these days: Shall it be peace or war?

Operators Believed Adamant.

Trade union executives also will confer Wednesday to discuss what measures of support they can promise the miners in the event of a strike. The report circulated following the meeting between the operators and Baldwin was that the operators had agreed to withdraw their proposals for negotiations on a basis of lower wages and longer hours was denied by the miners. The miners also doubted the likelihood of the big operators accepting a government offer to recompense the collieries for losses during negotiations if the operators whom is to be held by the present wage scales until the negotiations ended. This temporary subsidy

MACON CHARTER CHANGE PLANNED

Senator Collier To Day Will Introduce Bill Calling for City Manager Government Form.

The city of Macon would be given a city manager form of government under provisions of a bill to be introduced today in the senate by Senator J. C. Collier, of the 22nd district.

The mayor and city council have written him in favor of the measure, he said. A referendum was to be held by the people of Macon should the bill be passed by the assembly.

Senator Collier said the water commission of Macon had wired him urging the bill, as it would mean the elimination of the commission. "I will help eliminate the water commission," he declared.

AGGREGATE PRICE PAID TO GROWERS TOTALS $308,900

Georgia Farmers Are Well Pleased With Prices Paid as Markets Open and Sales Begin.

FIRST OFFERINGS ARE LOW GRADES

Highest Price Given Is $1 Per Pound, With an Average of 19 Cents for Total Sales.

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

Staff Correspondent.

Douglas, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—As newly built tobacco warehouses in the tobacco belt of south Georgia teemed today with busy crowds of buyers, representing the great tobacco manufacturing interests of the country, the 1925 season opened Tuesday with prospects bright for the best paying crop ever raised in the six years farmers have turned their attention to raising the plant on a large commercial scale. Grade for grade, the prices brought on the opening day in nearly all the markets, were higher than the prices received last year, with all indications pointing to a much greater total yield, which spells prosperity for this entire season.

This great new crop will add upwards of $15,000,000 to Georgia's agricultural wealth this year, will rejuvenate the farming business in this section of the state, will give the farmers a sure money crop to take the place of sea island cotton, which cannot be produced any more, because of the boll weevil, and will mean the turning of the scales of business prosperity in all lines here.

Over Million an Acre Pounds.

Reports from 22 of the 23 markets show that the first day's sales totaled 1,748,928 pounds, which sold for an aggregate sum of $308,900.85 and that the average price was 19 cents per pound. Matter led with sales of 150,000 pounds, which sold for $18,500, an average of 13 cents, while Haxley with 125,000 pounds, led the market for income, the amount being $21,250, or an average of 17 cents per pound. Thomasville led with the highest average, 75,000 pounds selling for $16,500, an average of 26 cents per pound.

At Moultrie and Tifton the record price of $1 per pound was paid for small lots, the lowest price paid being three cents per pound.

Most of the tobacco on the market today was the sand luc or lower leaf variety and of the cheaper grades. Today's prices indicate that the best tobacco will bring anywhere from 40 cents to $1 per pound, with a higher average than 20 cents for the entire crop, which means that if the yield holds up to 50,000,000 pounds, the income from the crop will be close to $15,000,000.

Optimism was the keynote of the opening of the new season and business men, merchants and bankers were

ROGERS' EMPLOYEES TO PARADE CITY ON WAY TO PICNIC

The L. W. Rogers company, representing 135 stores in Atlanta and more than 100 others through Georgia and South Carolina, will entertain 2,000 of its employees today with a variety of festivities, beginning officially with a parade at 2:30 o'clock from the company warehouse on Whitehall street, through the downtown section, out Peachtree street to Piedmont park.

More than 250 automobiles are expected to participate in the parade and favors will be flung to spectators along the way. At Piedmont park the guests will participate in a picnic. At 7:30 o'clock they will attend the Howard theater in a body—the entire first floor having been reserved for them.

BRYAN PREDICTED DEATH IN SLEEPING, DOCTOR DECLARES

Macon, Mo., July 28.—(P)—William Jennings Bryan had a premonition he would die in sleep, Dr. Hildreth, of Macon, revealed today.

"Well, my heart has not been treating me just right," the physician quoted Bryan as having said. "Sometimes, after a big meeting or an occasion where I have been engaged in some sharp contest I will lie down to rest, and sleep a sleep that will be eternal."

Several who were in the party that met Bryan recalled the prophetic utterance and remarked how closely it had been fulfilled by the circumstances at Dayton last Sunday.

Widow of George J. Gould COUPLE WILL MAKE HOME IN LONDON Weds Viscount in Canada

VISCOUNTESS DUNSFORD.

New York, July 28.—(P)—Mrs. Guinevere Sinclair Gould, widow of the late George J. Gould, was married in Montreal today to George St. John Broderick Viscount Dunsford, eldest son and heir of the Earl of Middleton. Announcement of the wedding was made by a local attorney, acting for the viscount.

While the viscount and viscountess will reside in London, their friends indicated the new Lady Dunsford would not abandon her fight in this country for $4,000,000 claimed as her share of the Gould fortune.

Viscountess Dunsford first came to the United States in 1913 with a theatrical company. She was born in Dublin, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Sinclair. Her grandfather was Sir Edward Sinclair, one-time provost of Trinity college.

In 1922 she was married to George

J. Gould, at Lakewood, N. J., six months after the death of Edith Kingdon Gould, his first wife. Mr. Gould died in Mentone, France, May 16, 1923. His death precipitated lengthy chancery litigation principally concerning the right of Mrs. Guinevere Gould's three children, born out of wedlock, to share in the estate of their father. The court decided finally they should share in the inheritance.

Lord Dunsford is 37 years of age. His family has been in the peerage since 1715, when the first Baron Broderick was created. Two years later, the title of Viscount Middleton in the Irish peerage also was conferred on the first holder, Alan Broderick.

Viscount Dunsford was educated privately and at Balliol college, Oxford. He was a captain in the Surrey Yeomanry in the world war and twice was decorated for bravery. He served in the Dardanelles expeditionary force as aide-de-camp to General Sir Ian Hamilton, later was a major in the cavalry, and concluded his service as a staff officer with the royal air force.

The viscount's father, Earl of Middleton, has sat in parliament, was secretary of state for India and secretary of state for war, and also served as under-secretary of foreign affairs.

At present, Viscount Dunsford is a member of a public works contracting firm in London.

Until recently Viscountess Dunsford had been in New York, when she gave testimony in an accounting suit of the fortune of the late George Gould and succeeded in having her three children awarded an annual income of $10,000 each from the estate for life.

Other heirs of Mr. Gould strenuously contested the right of Guinevere Gould's children to receive legacies under the terms of the Gould will. The Edith Kingdon Gould estate, under a recent agreement of the heirs, surrendered to the Gould Gould estate its claim of $1,900,000, the profits of a stock deal which George Gould negotiated in his first wife's name. Mrs. Guinevere Gould in turn agreed to give up valuable paintings her husband had given her. By a ruling of the referee, the Lakewood, N. J., home of George J. Gould went to his first wife's heirs. A claim of $4,000,000 which Mrs. Gould said her husband bequeathed to her three children still is in litigation.

Two men are in jail—one charged with larceny and the other marked "hold for further investigation"—as the result of complications which had their start in a police cell acquaintance.

J. L. Burrell, 54, of Buford, was arrested Sunday night charged with drunkenness. W. R. Lowry, 30, of Chattahoochee, was arrested on the same night charged with disorderly conduct. Both were found guilty Monday afternoon in police court. Burrell drawing a fine of $11 and Lowry one of $26.

Lowry paid his fine, but Burrell did not have sufficient money. The latter gave Lowry a suit of clothes which he stated he had purchased the day before, asking him to sell it to make up the deficit in his fine.

When Lowry failed to return Burrell complained to Turnkey R. E. Malone. Tuesday Officer Malone met Lowry on the street. Lowry explained that he was on his way to police station with the money for Burrell, but was jailed on charges of larceny.

Investigation disclosed the fact that the suit, with other clothing, had been stolen several days ago from the home of R. T. Cole, 541 Ponce de Leon avenue. The suit was found in a local pawnshop and identified by Mr. Cole.

Burrell explained that he had purchased the clothes for $10 from a stranger whose address he did not learn.

Both Lowry and Burrell remained in jail Tuesday night despite their heated protests.

Law and Order Bill Will Be Considered By Committee Today

Public hearing on the house law and order bill, drawn for the purpose of discouraging rioting and mob violence, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon before judiciary committee No. 2, of the house, at the Kimball House, it was announced Tuesday night.

Dr. C. B. Wilmer, of Sewanee university; Mrs. J. M. McEachern and Dr. T. J. Wootter, Jr., will be among those speaking in favor of the bill, which was introduced into the house by Representatives Lumpkin, of Bartow county, and Lawton, of Chatham county.

The bill provides for investigations and findings in reports of lynchings and riots, recovery of damages from bonds of sheriffs and other officers by victims, and provision empowering the governor to remove sheriffs and other officers from office for failure to arrest parties guilty of participating in riots and mob activities.

filled with a spirit of progress, as the first day's sales demonstrated. The year will be the greatest yet enjoyed. This crop coming along with bumper crops in all other farm products has brought a spirit of progress and enthusiasm that has never been seen before in this section and which bids fair to rival the Florida boom.

At the markets in Waycross, Alma and Douglas visited Tuesday by The Constitution correspondent, the average price per pound was approximately 21 cents. As the farmers do not bring their best quality in during the first days of the market, this price was considered remarkably good. Business men and bankers of the three towns today declared that this will be the greatest tobacco year in Georgia and they look for sustained good prices for the products.

All the picturesque features of this big south Georgia day were present at the market openings in all the tobacco centers in this district, according to report brought into Douglas late Tuesday. Farmers from the surrounding territory who have been experimenting with tobacco crowded the huge new warehouses, which are beginning to dot the landscape here, and enjoyed their first success in a crop which heretofore has not been grown by them. All the auctions got under way early Tuesday. The method of buying the tobacco is a novelty to the laymen who have not witnessed the spectacle and huge crowds sweltered under tin-roofed buildings and heard the monotonous drawl of the auctioneer as he called out unerringly the bids accepted and passed on to take up the next batch. The tobacco was piled in batches all over the warehouse floors and the farmers who brought it to the market stood by as the bidding continued and either accepted or rejected the bids as they were offered.

Many Firms Represented.

Large tobacco manufacturing companies sent a small army of buyers to the Georgia markets and they will remain here six or eight weeks until the purchasing stock is completed and the crops stored by the farmers are sold. The companies sending buyers were: American Tobacco company, Liggett & Myers, R. J. Reynolds, the British Imperial Tobacco company, J. P. Taylor & Co., and the Export Tobacco company.

Markets on the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic railroad were visited by a party of officials of that company, headed by B. L. Bug, receiver, and J. L. Edwards, assistant to the receiver, with offices in Atlanta. The Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic railroad was one of the pioneers in the development of the tobacco industry in south Georgia and its lines run to all the important tobacco growing sections. In the party of railroad officials in addition to Mr. Bug and Mr. Edwards were C. B. Kealhofer, freight traffic manager; E. V. Harkness, secretary to the receiver; A. D. Daniel, passenger traffic manager; H. S. Young, industrial agent; C. E. Brewer, superintendent of transportation; T. H. Hill, division passenger agent.

The party arrived in Waycross early Tuesday morning and went immediately to the new $300,000 warehouse erected by W. G. Crabtree, of Owensboro, Ky. Mr. Crabtree was in personal charge of the sale at Waycross and he estimated the first day totals at 500,000 pounds, sold at an average close to 20 cents a pound. The business men of Waycross offered prizes totaling nearly $1,000 to the farmers who led in producing the best qualities of tobacco.

At Alma, which is a new market and which is in the heart of one of the best sections of the state for tobacco raising, something like 60,000 pounds was sold the first day at an average of 22 cents per pound. E. S. Strickland is one of the pioneers of the industry at Alma and erected a new warehouse which was filled Tuesday. He said the success of this warehouse this year has led to the consideration of plans for the erection of a new warehouse next season.

Visitors Present.

One of the interesting features of the sale at Alma was the visit of 50 farmers from North Carolina, who came to see how this market opened and who are preparing to move to the Alma section this year, because of the superiority of the Georgia lands over the lands in their present home. A. A. Haggard has brought to Alma more than 100 families from North Carolina, who say that Georgia is to show remarkable strides as a tobacco-growing state.

The markets at Waycross and Alma were operated on a big scale for the first time this season. The Douglas market has been in operation for several years and there are now four large warehouses and a tobacco curing and shipping plant here. At Tifton there is a modern stemming plant, while big warehouses, many of them just finished, are found at the following points: Albany, Bainbridge, Baxley, Alma, Cairo, Douglas, Camilla, Fitzgerald, Hahira, Hazlehurst, Lyons, Metter, Moultrie, Nashville,

Nearly 2,000,000 Pounds Of Tobacco Sold for $308,900

Macon, Ga., July 28.—With one market missing, the reports of Georgia's bright-leaf tobacco sales on the opening day totaled 1,748,928 pounds, which sold for $308,900.68. The average price paid per pound was 19 cents.

As much as $1 per pound was paid for the best grades, while the lowest grades brought three cents per pound.

The table, with only one market missing, follows:

Totals	1,748,928	$308,900.68	19.1c

Pelham, Quitman, Thomasville, Tifton, Vidalia, Valdosta and Wacross.

It is estimated that 72,000 acres of Georgia land is planted in tobacco this year, as compared to 41,000 last year and 17,000 acres in 1923.

50 CENTS PAID AT CAIRO MARKET.

Cairo, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—The opening sales of the Cairo tobacco market at the Planters' warehouse here today fully measured up to expectations in every particular in quantity, quality and prices paid. A crowd of 600 to 800 people was on hand to hear the mysterious song of the auctioneer.

There were about 25,000 pounds on the floor at the opening of the sales and the prices paid reached a maximum of 45 cents during the morning. A number of lots brought 50 cents and it was indicated that the average for the day would run well above 20 cents. In the 40 to 50 cent class were quite a few full baskets.

$1 POUND PAID AT MOULTRIE

Moultrie, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—Moultrie, one of the new markets opened in south Georgia this season, sold 100,000 pounds of tobacco today, it was announced at the close of the first auction. The sales are expected to run fully as heavy tomorrow. Most of today's offerings were made up of common snail lug and primings, but even then the average price during the day was 17 cents a pound and the growers were jubilant over the returns.

A lot of extra fine tobacco brought in by Jim Sims sold for $1 a pound and a number of lots of good tobacco brought from 40 to 60 cents a pound.

THOMASVILLE SELLS 75,000 POUNDS.

Thomasville, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—About 75,000 pounds of tobacco were sold at the today's opening market, the highest price paid was 15 cents per hundred and lowest was 12 cents. Growers were well pleased and tobacco was brought in this afternoon to be placed on sale Tuesday.

LOW GRADES SELL WELL AT BACKSHEAR.

Backshear, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—The tobacco market at Backshear opened today with promptness and efficiency at 10 o'clock. Less tobacco was in evidence at today's sales than was seen last year. This was foreseen several days ago when it was learned that most farmers had not finished curing.

A fine crop has been made in the Backshear territory, however, and it is thought that a greater quantity than ever will be seen here during next week. One thing that impressed visitors at today's sales was the rapidity and efficiency with which the whole procedure was carried out. The two sets of buyers operated like clockwork.

Most of the offerings at today's sales were of the so-called grades, or sand lugs as they are called, and hence did not command as high price as the better grades would have. Notwithstanding this fact, however, some of this variety sold as high as 37 cents per pound. Many visitors were in town.

LOW GRADE BRINGS 50 CENTS AT PELHAM.

Pelham, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—It was estimated that fully 150,000 pounds of tobacco were in the warehouses here when the sales opened today, which was attended by 2,000 people. The market was opened with a talk by J. G. Garrison, of Ochlocknee, who pointed out that Pelham's tobacco market was already a success, more tobacco being on the floor than was expected for the opening day.

Some of the first tobacco offered was of low grade, but smiles of delight spread over the faces of its owners as prices of 12 cents, 14 cents and even 16 cents was offered for these off-grades. As the jabbering group of sellers and buyers passed down the line now and then could be heard the shout of excited farmers as they saw tickets of 20 cents, 30 cents and 40 cents placed on their baskets. About the middle of the first row a tag of 50 cents reached a basket, causing a near riot among the jubilant farmers. This was the highest price paid up to noon, which was 30 minutes after the market opened, but it was noticed several baskets ranged near this figure.

PRICE AVERAGES 20 CENTS AT FITZGERALD.

Fitzgerald, Ga., July 28.—Both of the Fitzgerald tobacco markets opened today with large numbers of planters offerings first curings. The average price paid was about 20 cents.

Ten tobacco companies have buyers on local market. Indications are that tobacco prices will exceed last year's average. The weight, color and quality are said to be better than previous seasons.

40 CENTS PAID AT WAYCROSS.

Waycross, Ga., July 28.—Approximately 35,000 pounds of tobacco were on the floor at the opening of the 1925 sales today. Buyers estimated that the average selling price was about 16 cents and that poorer grades, sand lugs, or primings were in majority.

Good grades placed on the floor have brought from 35 to 40 cents.

PRICE OF $1 PAID AT TIFTON MARKET.

Tifton, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—Tifton tobacco market opened strong with prices running 10 to 20 per cent higher than for same grades last year. Offerings were light, but general from over the territory. Estimated that sales at the three local warehouses will run about 100,000 pounds.

Quantity offered on the first day was much less than last year and the quality also lower. Growers expressed themselves as well pleased with prices. Representatives of the smaller companies bought most of the tobacco offered.

Charlie Flowers, of Cook county, topped the Tifton market on opening day when he sold one basket at $1 per pound. Majority of the tobacco sold from 20 to 30 cents.

GROWERS PLEASED AT DUBLIN SALES.

Dublin, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—The first tobacco sale for Laurens county was held here today and the average price paid for the week was 20 cents, with the best samples bringing 38 cents. Hundreds of farmers of this and neighboring counties were present to witness the auctioning of the first crop. The warehouse was packed with spectators and the crowd as a whole was pleased with the results of the sale.

The Laurens crop is not yet matured and the only tobacco sold Tuesday was sand lugs. The greater portion of the crop and the best crop is yet to be cured. A number of buyers from large tobacco firms were present to bid. The sales will continue through the season and will grow heavier as the crop is gathered.

36 CENTS HIGHEST PAID AT DOUGLAS.

Douglas, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—More than 2,000 growers and others interested were in attendance at the opening Tuesday morning of the tobacco market at Douglas. Fifteen to 20 buyers were on hand to bid. The highest price paid was 36 cents for the best grade of tobacco.

TOOMBS GROWERS ARE PLEASED.

Lyons, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—Tobacco market opening day was a big success at Lyons, where two big new warehouses opened with a full crop of buyers.

Sales today totaled 60,000 pounds, mostly first curings, though the early opening has found many farmers not ready to sell. Average price was 17 cents per pound, which proved very satisfactory to the growers, on account of the low quality of much of the tobacco offered.

Highest price paid was 50 cents per pound and low, three cents. A big crowd attended the opening and went away well pleased with the price, which assures Toombs county of at least $700,000 for the tobacco crop between now and closing date, September 6.

35,000 POUNDS SOLD AT CAMILLA.

Camilla, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—Camilla's tobacco market sold 35,000 pounds of tobacco today at an average of 22 cents, the high price being 50 cents.

Only sand lugs were sold, as the majority of farmers are still curing and grading their tobacco, but it is confidently expected that by next Monday the volume will grow to capacity warehouses.

The buyers are delighted with prospects, and all the big companies are represented. It is estimated that Camilla will sell between five and six million pounds of tobacco this season.

CROP DELAYED AT HAHIRA.

Hahira, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—The tobacco market opened here Tuesday with an informal program consisting of music, a band and an address of welcome by W. W. Webb.

Approximately 230,000 pounds of tobacco at an average price of 16.68 cents per pound at the Hahira warehouse. 5,065 pounds at an average of 15.57 cents per pound, sold at the Gold Leaf warehouse and at the Hahira warehouse, and 15,218 pounds sold at an average of 15.29 cents per pound.

The crop in this section has been delayed, as the tobacco growers are busy gathering and curing the crop, and it is expected that the quantity brought to the warehouse will increase daily.

BAXLEY PLEASED WITH PRICES.

Baxley, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—Approximately 125,000 pounds of bright tobacco sold here today at a price averaging from 16 to 18 cents per pound. Sand lugs brought unexpected high prices. Top prices today was 67 cents and lowest was 15 cents.

Growers consider prices paid today as satisfactory. Sales will run light until farmers have time to gather and bring the tobacco to market. J. J. Brown addressed the crowd, before a barbecue was served.

ALMA PLANS MORE WAREHOUSES.

Alma, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—

Only poor grades and sand lugs were placed on the market here today at the opening sale of tobacco. Seventy-five thousand pounds sold at an average of 18 cents per pound.

This is the first year Alma has operated a tobacco market, but plans are being made to erect at least three more warehouses for next year.

SALES LIGHT AT ALBANY.

Albany, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—Sales were light on the opening day of the Albany tobacco market, owing to the fact that the season is 10 days to two weeks late and the larger growers are wrestling with the problem of getting the crop into barns.

Ten thousand pounds were sold today, the best price paid being 30 cents a pound.

Growers say it will be at least a week before they will be able to market the better grades in quantities.

MANY BUYERS AT QUITMAN.

Quitman, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—An average of 16.48 cents per pound was paid here today for 103,000 pounds of bright tobacco, the total of the first day's sales. The prices ranged from four cents to 50 cents per pound on a quality of tobacco that was perhaps much lower than the grade offered on the opening day last year.

It is believed that the sale Wednesday will find a much better grade of tobacco on the floor of the warehouse and that prices will be much higher. Fourteen tobacco companies had buyers here today.

There are two processes continually taking place in your body. One is the building up of your BONE, BLOOD, NERVE and TISSUE, the other is the carrying off of the waste matter and impurities.

For every ounce of food you eat or liquid you drink, there is almost an ounce of waste matter that should be eliminated by the way of your KIDNEYS and BOWELS.

If your LIVER and KIDNEYS fail to do their duty, portions of this waste matter remain in your system and interfere with the normal action of the organs, causing INDIGESTION, SOUR STOMACH, KIDNEY TROUBLE, etc. These impurities are also taken up by your blood and carried to all parts of your system, causing a general run-down condition and IMPURE BLOOD.

NUX-HERBS & IRON acts directly on your Liver, Kidneys and Bowels. It starts to work from the very first dose, does the work safely, safely and quickly. It will work the cold, bile, filth, malaria and impurities from your system in a surprising manner, without grip or pain, and build you up all over.

NUX-HERBS & IRON is especially recommended for—
KIDNEY TROUBLE, BILIOUSNESS, TORPID LIVER, NERVOUS DEBILITY, SOUR STOMACH, PAIN IN THE BACK AND HIPS, FREQUENT URINATION, WEAK BLADDER, LOSS OF APPETITE.

ADDRESS PREPARED BY BRYAN JUST BEFORE HIS DEATH

EVOLUTION RAPPELLED IN FINAL MESSAGE

Text of Speech He Would Have Delivered Through-out Nation Is Given Posthumously.

Dayton, Tenn., July 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—The anti-evolution speech, in the delivery of which William Jennings Bryan hoped to make his "supreme effort," today was given the world, despite the fact its author's lips had been sealed by death.

It is Bryan's exposition of religious faith and indictment of the evolution hypothesis, set forth in all his brilliant eloquence and philosophical phraseology.

In it, Christianity is held up as the only means by which "the problems that vex the heart and perplex the world" may be solved. Evolution is branded as only "millions of guesses strung together," disputing the "truth of the Bible as the Word of God."

Was To Deliver Message. The address was to have been delivered in the trial of John T. Scopes, convicted of violating Tennessee's law prohibiting the teaching of evolution in its schools, but by agreement between counsel, closing arguments were dispensed with.

Then, the great commoner prepared to deliver his message at an early date, when it would have been released for publication throughout the country. But he lies silent within a bronze casket.

The text of Mr. Bryan's address follows: "May it please the court and gentlemen of the jury:

Text of His Address. "Demosthenes, the greatest of ancient orators, in his 'Oration on the Crown,' the most famous of his speeches, began by supplicating the favor of all the gods and goddesses of Greece. If, in a case which involved only his own fame and fate, he felt justified in petitioning the heathen gods of his country surely we, who deal with the momentous issues involved in this case, may well pray to the ruler of the universe for wisdom to guide us in the performance of our several parts in this historic trial.

"Let me, in the first place, congratulate our cause that circumstances have committed the trial to a community like this and entrusted the decision to a jury made up largely of the yeomanry of the state. The book in issue in this trial contains on its first page two pictures contrasting the disturbing noises of a great city with the calm serenity of the country. It is a tribute that rural life has fully earned.

Likes Scene of Trial. "I appreciate the sturdy honesty and independence of those who come into daily contact with the earth, who, living next to nature, worship nature's God and who, dealing with the myriad mysteries of earth and air, seek to learn from revelation about the Bible's wonder-working God. I admire the stern virtues, the vigilance and the patriotism of the class from which the jury is drawn, and am reminded of the lines of Scotland's immortal bard, which, when changed but slightly, describe your country's confidence in you:

"To Scotland, my dear, my native soil! For whom my warmest wish to Heaven is sent, May I thy hardy sons of rustic hue, Benighted with health, and peace, And oh, my Heaven! their simple lives present From woe's vexation, weak and vile! Then how'er crowns and coronets be rent, A virtuous populace may rise the rent, And stand, a wall of fire, around their much-loved isle."

Always the Best! In This BOTTLE

Must Build Schools. "Christians must, in every state of the union, build their own colleges in which to teach Christianity; it is only simple justice that atheists, agnostics and unbelievers should build their own colleges if they want to teach their own religious views or attack the religious views of others.

"The statute is brief and free from ambiguity. It prohibits the teaching, in the public schools, of any theory that denies the story of divine creation as taught in the Bible, and teaches, instead, that man descended from a lower order of animals." The first sentence sets forth the purpose of those who passed the law. They forbid the teaching of any evolution theory that disputes the Bible record of man's creation and, to make sure that there shall be no misunderstanding, they place their own interpretation on their language and specifically forbid the teaching of any theory that makes man a descendant of any lower form of life.

"The evidence shows that defendant taught, in his own language as well as from a book outlining the theory, that man descended from lower forms of life. Howard Morgan, a 14-year-old boy, who translated the words of the teacher and the textbook into language that even a child can understand. As he recollects it, the defendant said a little germ in one cell organism was formed in the sea; this kept evolving until it got to be a pretty good sized animal, then came on to be a land animal, and kept evolving from there. This was man. There is no room for difference of opinion here, and there is no need for expert testimony. Here are the facts, corroborated by her student, Harry Shelton, and admitted to be true by counsel for defense. Mr. White, superintendent of schools, testified to the use of Hunter's 'Civics Biology,' and to the fact that the defendant not only admitted teaching evolution, but declared that he could not teach it without violating the law. Mr. Robinson, the chairman of the school board, corroborated the testimony of Superintendent White in regard to the defendant's admissions and declaration. These are the facts; they are sufficient and undisputed. A verdict of guilty must follow.

More Required. "But the importance of this case requires more. The facts and arguments presented to you of the justice of conviction in this case, but while not necessary to a verdict of guilty, they should convince you of the righteousness of the purpose of the people of the state in the enactment of this law. The state must speak through you to the outside world and repel the aspersions cast by the counsel for the defense upon the intelligence and the enlightenment of the citizens of Tennessee. The people of this state have a high appreciation of the value of education. The state constitution testifies to that in its demand that education shall be fostered and that science and literature shall be cherished. The continuing and increasing appropriations for public instruction furnish abundant proof that Tennessee places a just estimate upon the learning that is secured in its schools.

"Religion is not hostile to learning; Christianity has been the greatest patron learning has ever had. But children under the guise of teaching science.

Christians know that 'the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom,' now just as it has been in the past, and they therefore oppose the teaching of guesses that encourage godlessness among the students.

"Neither does Tennessee undervalue the service rendered by science. The Christian men and women of Tennessee know how deeply mankind is indebted to science for benefits conferred by the discovery of the laws of nature and by the designing of machinery for the utilization of these laws. Give science a fact and it is not only inevitable, but it is of incalculable service to man. One is entitled to draw from society in proportion to the service it renders to society, who is able to estimate the reward earned by those who have given us the use of steam, the use of electricity, and enabled us to utilize the weight of water that flows down the mountainside? Who will estimate the value of the service rendered by those who invented the phonograph, the telephone and the radio? Or, to come more closely to our home life, how shall we recompense those who gave us the sewing machine, the harvester, the threshing machine, the tractor, the automobile, and the method of modern making artificial light? The department of medicine alone opens an unlimited field for invaluable service. Typhoid and yellow fever are not feared by the people here. Diphtheria and pneumonia have been robbed of some of their terrors, and a high place on the scroll of fame is won by the discoverers of remedies for arthritis, cancer, tuberculosis and other dread diseases to which mankind is heir.

Truth Welcomed. "Christianity welcomed truth from whatever source it comes, and is not afraid that any real truth from any source can interfere with the divine truth that comes by inspiration from God Himself. It is not scientific truth to which we object, but the true science is classified knowledge, and nothing therefore can be scientific unless it is true.

"Evolution is not truth; it is merely a hypothesis; it is millions of guesses strung together. It had not been proven in the days of Darwin; he expressed astonishment that with two or three million species it had been impossible to trace any species to any other species. It had not been proven in the days of Huxley and it has not been proven up to today. It is less than four years ago that Professor Bateson came all the way from London to Canada to tell the American scientists that every effort to trace one species to another had failed—every one. He said he still had faith in evolution but had doubts about the origin of species. But of what value is evolution if it cannot explain the origin of species? While many scientists accept evolution as if it were a fact, they all admit, when questioned that evolution is an object for which they have no evidence. It has been found as to how one species developed into another.

"Evolution suggested two laws, sexual selection and natural selection. Sexual selection has been laughed out of the class room, and natural selection is being abandoned, and no new explanation of evolution even to scientists. Some of the more rash advocates of evolution are wont to say that evolution is as firmly established as the law of gravitation or the Copernican theory. The absurdity of such a claim is apparent when we remember that anyone can prove the law of gravitation by throwing a weight into the air, and that anyone can prove the roundness of the earth by going around it, while no one can prove evolution to be true in any way whatever.

Chemistry Is Obstacle. "Chemistry is an insurmountable obstacle in the path of evolution. It is one of the greatest of sciences, it separates the atoms—isolates them and walks about them, so to speak. If there were in nature a progressive force, an eternal urge, chemistry would find it. But it is not there. All of the 92 original elements are separate and distinct; they combine in fixed and permanent proportions. Water is H₂O, as it has been from the beginning. It was here before life appeared and has never changed; neither can it be shown that anything else has materially changed.

"There is no more reason to believe that man descended from some inferior animal than there is to believe that a stately mansion has descended from a small cottage. Resemblances are not proof—they simply put us on inquiry. As one fact, as the absence of the accused from the scene of the murder, outweighs all the resemblances that a thousand witnesses could swear to, so the inability of science to trace any one of the millions of species to another species, outweighs all the resemblances upon which evolutionists rely to establish man's blood relationship with the brutes.

"But while the wisest scientists can not prove a pushing power, such as evolution is supposed to be, there is a lifting power than any child can understand. The plant lifts the mineral up into a higher world still higher. So, it has been reasoned by analogy, man rises, not by a power within him, but only when drawn up by the power of his own kind. There is a spiritual gravitation that draws all souls toward heaven, just as surely as there is a physical force that draws all matter on the surface of the earth toward the earth's center. Christ is our drawing power; he said, 'I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me,' and his promise is being fulfilled daily all over the world.

"It must be remembered that the law under consideration in this case does not prohibit the teaching of evolution up to the line that separates man from the lower forms of animal life. The law might well have gone farther than it does and prohibit the teaching of evolution, in lower forms of life, the law is a very conservative statement of the people's opposition to an anti-Biblical thesis. The defendant was not content to teach that the law permitted; he, for reasons of his own, persisted in teaching that which was forbidden for reasons entirely satisfactory to the lawmakers.

Few Understand. "Most of the people who believe in evolution do not know what evolution means. One of the science books taught in the Dayton high school has a chapter on 'The Evolution of Machinery.' This is a very common misuse of the term. People speak of the evolution of the telephone, the automobile, and the musical instrument. But these are merely illustrations of man's power to deal intelligently with inanimate matter; there is no growth from within in the evolution of machinery. The equally improper is the use of the word 'evolution' to describe the growth of a plant from a seed, the growth of a chicken from an egg, or the development of any form of animal life from a single cell. All these give us a circle, not a change from one species to another.

"Evolution—the evolution involved in this case, and the only evolution that is a matter of controversy anywhere—is the evolution taught by defendant, set forth in the books now prohibited by the new state law, and illustrated in the diagram printed on page 194 of Hunter's 'Civics Biology.' The author estimates the number of species in the animal kingdom at 518,900. These are divided into 18 classes, and each class is indicated on the diagram by a circle, proportionate in size to the number of species in each class and attached by a stem to the trunk of the tree. It begins with protozoa and ends with the mammals. Passing over the class with which the average man is unfamiliar, let me call your attention to a few of the larger and better known groups. The insects are numbered at 360,000, over two-thirds of the total number of species in the animal world. The fishes are numbered at 13,000, the amphibians at 1,400, the reptiles at 3,500 and the birds are 13,000 while 3,500 mammals are crowded together in a little circle that is barely higher than the bird circle. No circle is reserved for man alone. He is, according to the diagram, shut up in the little circle entitled 'mammals' with 3,499 other species of mammals. Does it not seem a little unfair not to distinguish between man and lower forms of life? What shall we say of the intelligence, not to say elation, of those who are so partial to distinguish between fishes and reptiles and birds, but put a man with an immortal soul in the same circle with the wolf, the hyena and the skunk? What must be the impression made upon children by such a degradation of man?

Book for Children. "In the preface of this book, the author explains that it is for children, and adds that 'the boy or girl of average ability upon admission to the secondary school is not a thinking individual.' Whatever may be said in favor of teaching evolution to adults, it surely is not proper to teach it to children who are not yet able to think.

"The evolutionist does not undertake to tell us how protozoa, moved by interior and resident forces, sent life up through all the various species, and cannot prove that there was actually any such compelling power at all. And yet, the school children are asked to accept their guesses and build a philosophy of life upon them. If it were not so serious a matter one might be tempted to speculate upon the various degrees of relationship that, according to evolutionists, exist between man and other forms of life. It might require some very nice calculation to determine at what degree of relationship the killing of a relative ceases to be murder and the eating of one's kin ceases to be cannibalism.

"But it is not a laughing matter when one considers that evolution not only offers no suggestions as to a creator but tends to put the creative act so far away as to cast doubt upon reality itself. And, while it is shaking faith in God as a beginning it is also creating doubt as to a heaven at the end of life. Evolutionists do not feel that it is incumbent upon them to show how life began or at what point in their long drawn-out scheme of changing species man became endowed with hope and promise of immortal life. God may be a matter of indifference to the evolutionists, and a life beyond may have no charm for them, but the mass of mankind will continue to worship their creator and continue to find comfort in the promise of their Saviour that He has gone to prepare a place for them. Christ has made of death a narrow, starlit strip between the companionship of yesterday and the reunion of tomorrow; evolution strikes out the stars and deepens the gloom that enshrouds the tomb.

Guess Not Enough. "If the results of evolution were unimportant, one might require less proof in support of the hypothesis, but before accepting a new philosophy of life, built upon a materialistic foundation, we have reason to demand something more than guesses; we

End your foot troubles Positive and Instant Relief with Dr. Scholl's Foot-Eazer

Straining and weakening of the muscles and ligaments that support the arch of the foot is the direct cause of most foot ailments. When these muscles and ligaments become weakened they allow the arch of the foot to sag and break down under the body's weight. Thousands of people are suffering from this condition without knowing the nature of their trouble. They only know that they have tired, aching, burning feet, weak ankles, pain in the legs and back, pain in the heel, cramped toes, corns, bunions, calluses, etc.

Dr. Scholl's Foot-Eazer is a scientifically made device that bridges the feet from heel to ball. It gently but firmly supports the arch—relieves all strain on the aching muscles and ligaments—instantly relieves all foot trouble. The Foot-Eazer is light in weight, springy and durably made. It is always comfortable. Being made of two finely tempered special silveroid springs, it is self-adjusting to any foot. It has just enough "give" to tone up the weakened muscles—thereby giving permanent relief. No larger shoes need be worn.

Call today and see our Foot Comfort Expert. Let him give you a free demonstration. You will be astonished at the relief and comfort you will receive from Dr. Scholl's Foot-Eazer and Foot Comfort Appliances.

1. TINED FEET. Dr. Scholl's Foot-Eazer immediately relieves the strain from overworked muscles.

2. WEAK ANKLES. Instantly strengthened by Dr. Scholl's Foot-Eazer.

3. PAIN IN THE LEGS AND BACK. Is often caused by foot trouble. This is instantly relieved by Dr. Scholl's Foot-Eazer.

4. PAIN IN THE HEEL. This is instantly relieved by Dr. Scholl's Foot-Eazer.

5. FLAT FOOT. WEAKENED ARCHES. The Foot-Eazer strengthens the sagging muscles and prevents flat foot.

6. CRAMPED TOES. The Foot-Eazer holds the foot up in place and instantly relieves this condition.

7. CORNS, BUNIONS, CALLUSES. Dr. Scholl's Foot-Eazer instantly removes the cause—friction and pressure—and gives quick, sure relief.

School Book Measure Favored By House of Representatives; Appropriations Work Begun

Bill of McCrory Provides for Creation of State Commission and Texts at Cost.

Opening of debate on the general appropriations bill, passage of the McCrory bill establishing a state school book commission, and defeat of a resolution inviting former United States Senator Hoke Smith to address a joint session of the legislature, featured the Tuesday morning session of the house of representatives. It was the first session under the new rule of 9 o'clock meeting, which will be continued today.

The joint resolution for the Hoke Smith speech had passed the senate Monday, but when it came up in the house it was defeated on the ground of conservation of time by Representative Cullpepper, of Fayette, and others. On motion of Representative Linder, of Jeff Davis, consideration was indefinitely postponed.

The school book bill, which passed by a vote of 107 to 63, has been introduced by the state school book commission, and provides for a school book commission, to be appointed by the governor, which shall name text books to be used in common schools, shall purchase copyrights on these books and electrotype, and ask bids for their printing. The books would then be distributed at cost, and, according to claim of the author, they would be only about one-third of the present cost.

Appropriation Bill.

When the house, in committee of the whole, began consideration of the general appropriations bill, rapid progress was made until the item appropriating $5,000,000 to common schools was reached. Several amendments were proposed, and this item was still under debate when a motion to adjourn carried shortly after 1 o'clock.

Chairman Barrett, of the appropriations committee, explained that this $5,000,000 appropriation was in line with the budget committee's recommendation for elimination of the clause that the schools shall receive half of all state revenue, and that an equalization fund be created to help poorer counties of the state in their school programs. The chairman explained that if a bill creating an equalization fund is passed, the $5,000,000 necessary will come out of the $5,000,000, leaving $4,500,000 as the regular school appropriation, which is $250,000 greater than that of 1923 and 1924.

Hanby, of Rabun, introduced an amendment making the appropriation $6,000,000 per year instead of $5,000,000, and Wood, of Spalding, introduced another making it $5,000,000 for 1925 and $6,000,000 for 1927.

Hayman, of Washington, was author of an amendment to provide that nothing in the appropriation should conflict with the 50-50 apportionment of the state revenue.

FIGURE 50-50 Clause. Milner, of Dodge, opposed the 50-50 clause, stating that it was "50 per cent sentiment and 50 per cent foolishness." Cullpepper, of Fayette, urged that the committee's recommendations be followed, stating that if they are not, the common school fund will be the one to suffer when finances fail to meet appropriations.

Bussey, of Crisp, also supported the committee recommendations.

No action on the amendments or the appropriation itself had been taken when the house adjourned.

Consideration of the appropriations bill was preceded by warm arguments on a motion by Dykes, of Dooly, to

DROP ELECTION FIGHT.

Dr. John Kennedy and John Jentzen Keep Places.

Reports that election of Dr. John P. Kennedy as city health officer, and John Jentzen as sanitary chief might be reopened on the ground of an alleged irregularity at the last meeting, were set at rest Tuesday afternoon when the sanitary committee of city council, in regular session, failed to consider the question.

The meeting was confined to routine business, and was adjourned after a half hour session.

NEW SENATE BILLS

The following new bills were introduced Tuesday in the senate:

By Curwain, of the Fifth—To permit expenditure of state funds for collection of vital statistics. Constitutional amendments. By Hendrix, of the Twentieth—To increase salary of secretary of state, to provide him with clerical assistance, and to authorize him to grant charters to private corporations. Constitutional amendments. By Sapp, of the Forty-third—To increase amount of duty, weekly and monthly wages exempt from process of garnishment.

limit individual debate on any one item in the bill to five minutes. Representative Bussey offered an amendment limiting debate to five minutes on items less than $1,000,000 and 10 minutes for items above that figure. There was considerable opposition to any limitation, however, Representative Lindsay stating that not 50 per cent of the members understood the bill and that he was tired of attempts by a few members "and a few non-members" to run the house. Representative Milner pointed out that one item alone appropriated $5,000,000 of the state's money, and opposed the limitation resolution.

Items Given Approval.

The following items in the appropriations bill were approved by the committee of the whole house before adjournment:

Governor's salary (1925), $7,500; (1927), $7,500; secretaries and clerks in governor's office, salaries (1925), $10,000; (1927), $10,000; messenger salary, governor's office (1925), $300; (1927), $350; governor's confidential fund (1925), $5,000; (1927), $5,000; governor's reward fund (1925), $5,000; (1927), $5,000; insurance premiums on state property, due January 1, 1927 (1925), $150,000; (1927), $150,000; salaries of state (1925), $2,000; (1927), $2,000; salary clerk to secretary of state (1925) $1,000; (1927), $1,000. Salary controller general (1925), $2,000; (1927), $2,000; salary chief clerk to comptroller (1925), $1,800; (1927), $1,800; (with additional fees from foreign corporation taxes to make up total $5,000 per year. Insurance clerk, salary (1925) $1,200; (1927), $1,200; (with additional from insurance fees to make up $2,400 per annum); salary clerk with land department (1925), $1,000; (1927), $1,000; salary clerk public service corporations (1925), $2,000; (1927), $2,000; salary insurance commission (1925), $3,000; (1927), $3,000; salary deputy insurance commission (1925), $3,000; (1927), $3,000; salary insurance clerk (1925) $2,000; (1927), $2,000. Salary state treasurer (1925), $1,800; (1927), $1,800; salary assistant treasurer (1925), $3,000; (1927), $3,000; salaries clerical help to state treasurer (1925), $6,000; (1927), $6,000. Salary attorney general (1925), $5,000; (1927), $5,000; salary assistant attorney general (1925), $2,500; (1927), $2,500; salary stenographer to attorney general (1925), $1,500; (1927), $1,500 (this item reduced from committee recommendation of $2,000 per annum, to former figure of $1,500 per annum). Salary state superintendent of schools (1925), $2,000; (1927), $2,000; salary clerk in state department of education (1925), $1,200; (1927), $1,200.

WOMAN IS AMONG MANY INDICTED

Along with the indictment Tuesday of Gerald L. Smith, card index burglar, and Eula Waller, daughter of John Waller, now serving a life sentence in connection with the murder in October, 1923, of James A. Langston, rural mail carrier of Campbell county, the Fulton county grand jury set a record in the number of true bills returned.

Many of the charges are for minor offenses, but the total number of true bills reached 42, a record for regular routine business of the court for the past two years, according to Louis Jones, calendar clerk.

Smith was charged with taking goods valued at $3,370 in the four indictments returned against him. He has announced that he will plead guilty because of the preponderance of evidence already collected against him, although he is innocent. He will be allowed to enter a plea in Judge G. H. Howard's division of Fulton superior court and Assistant Solicitor John Hudson, who was listed in the card index system found by officers when they raided his apartment will prosecute in behalf of the state. Smith's bond was set at $5,000.

Eula Waller was charged with a statutory offense. She was a star state witness in the recent trial of three men charged with the murder of Langston.

Wade Brown, negro, was indicted on three counts charging assault with intent to murder. Officer C. C. Neal and the latter's father, W. B. Neal, on July 19.

J. T. Kirkland was charged with making and possessing liquor and "possessing apparatus for the manufacture of spirituous whiskeys and malts" in three indictments returned by the jury.

Atlanta National Insurance Center, Emmett Small Says

Additional evidence that Atlanta is fast becoming an insurance center of nation-wide importance is furnished in figures of the Georgia Casualty company made public here by Emmett Small, president of the company, which have attracted unusual attention in national insurance journals.

Analyzing a recent statement of the company, Mr. Small shows that the company had an increase in business for the first six months in the year of more than a quarter of a million dollars in net premiums.

The company's total writings for the six months' period, according to Mr. Small, were in excess of two millions of dollars, requiring an increase in reserves of approximately $175,000. Despite this increase, the company's net surplus, as shown in its semi-annual statement, was the same as it was at the end of the year. The income saved for the first six months' period was $231,000, Mr. Small stated.

The company now operates in 40 states, and is beginning to receive considerable patronage from Atlanta people, especially since its removal here last October, Mr. Small said.

Mr. Small, who has just returned from an extended trip in visiting the branch offices and agents of his company, said business conditions throughout the country are unusually sound. He declared 1925 will be a banner year for Georgia farmers.

"Georgia farms are splendid investments and there is every indication of their showing substantial enhancement in value, following the nationwide advertising which the south is now receiving," said Mr. Small.

Rev. H. E. Newton officiating. Interment was in Marietta, Ga. Mr. Douglas was born in Crawford county August 30, 1846. In April, 1861, he enlisted in the Confederate army as a musician in Company D, Tenth Florida regiment.

STATE IS ASKED TO BUILD FENCE

Arguments in favor of a bill to appropriate $100,000 for construction of a fence along the Georgia-Florida line, to prevent reinfestation of cattle ticks from Florida cattle which wander over into this state, were made before the appropriations committee of the house Tuesday afternoon.

This was the only matter discussed at the session and a resolution was adopted providing that the committee should not meet again until next week, subject to the call of the chair.

It was pointed out that it is impossible for the committee to pass intelligently upon the many special appropriation bills before it until after the passage of the general appropriations bill is completed in the house.

This is expected to occupy practically the balance of the week. It developed during the hearing of the tick-fence bill, that out of approximately 100 miles of fence required, 120 miles have been built. Chairman Ferner Barrett closely questioned Dr. Peter F. Bahnsen, state veterinarian, as to who was responsible for the payment of this fence-building bill, and it developed that the counties on the border were legally responsible for the building, but that they had built it on the belief that the state would eventually reimburse them for the expense.

APPLICATIONS FOR MARRIAGE LICENSES

The following applications for marriage licenses were filed Tuesday in the office of Fulton county's ordinary: Leonard Edmondson Mills, 41, and Mrs. Berdie B. Weaver, 28, L. C. Preston, 41, and Mrs. Carrie Smith, 42, Jesse Sims, 26, and Miss Maude Morgan, 21, Jack L. Camp, 22, and Miss Annie May Whitmore, 19, Hoyt H. Hendricks, 26, and Miss Mary Roth Wilson, 26.

Grace McClatchey, 5, Youngest Page In State Senate

Five-year-old Grace Darling McClatchey, daughter of Major D. F. McClatchey, secretary of the state senate, is the youngest page ever to answer to a legislator's call.

Little Grace began her senate duties Tuesday, and immediately showed the woman in her by gaining the rule over the boy pages without a single bit of opposition.

Hearing rumors of arguments over tax matters and catching something about the possibility of a deficit in the state treasury, she promptly demanded her day's pay of Secretary McClatchey as soon as adjournment was moved and passed.

Major McClatchey "dug down" and produced the required two dollars. "Isn't that just like a woman?" he said.

37 DIVORCE DECREES ARE GRANTED IN DAY

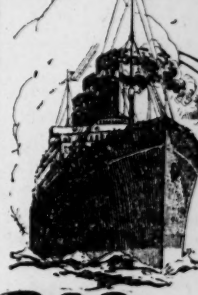

Thirty-seven divorce decrees were granted by Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton superior court, in a three-hour session of court Tuesday. These cases are included in 230 scheduled to be tried at this term of what is known as the Fulton divorce court. All the petitions now being heard are uncontested.

Railroad Securities

play an important part in University Endowments

Nearly one hundred and fifty million dollars' worth of steam railroad stocks and bonds are held by American Universities; sixty-five of our leading colleges and technical schools having been endowed with these securities. Statistics also show that these investments represent practically thirty percent of the productive holdings of these colleges. Thus it will be seen that the education of the youth of this country, in a very large part, depends upon the continued success of railroad operations.

The railroads must operate at a profit in order to meet these bonds and pay dividends on this stock. Think of this when you can say a good word for the railroads of the United States—when you can give them your patronage. Judged from the standpoint of efficiency of operation and moderation of charges—there is no transportation system in all the world to equal the modern American railroad.

Louisville & Nashville Railroad Securities are held by many thousands of owners—in all walks of life and in all parts of the territory it serves.

Just From Georgia

BY FRANK L. STANTON

The Way Divides.

Behold, the way divides, and we are doomed.

Each to the path that life may afford:

As winter lath its spring—endured reward;

As stormy seas and deserts, weary-roamed.

Lend haven and oasis; as the cloud-plumed, hath stored.

Rich comfort for the toiling stars that toward the setting—ah, so, though the setting—

To scale the steep impossibility of hope, setting his image on the heaven's crest.

Of high fulfillment in the youth of Time.

Accordant years shall grant us as the slope.

Long journey road confronts the west.

A sweeter measure and a nobler rhyme.—EDWIN GILL AM.

Kirkwood, Ga.

Nuggets by the Wayside.

We don't estimate the corn crop in gallons.

Very few in this section can afford the gallon measure.

It is a good thing to have treasure in heaven, but some folks can't rest for worrying about the interest they hope to get on it.

Our manly troubles, but there's no mention that his nose fell due to the bank while his indorse was out of town.

But we have worked for the best, the better thing we can do is to hope we'll get it, and work on.

The railroad crossing still holds its own as the quick and certain route to the Hereafter.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

The ladies themselves. I went to the trouble to read every one of them.

With the exception of one the girls claim to descend from wealthy and patrician ancestors, who lose their money during the civil war by speculation or through fraudulent stock operations. A curious coincidence. I call it.

A sort of controversy has sprung up between some newspaper writers and show producers. The latter affirm that to see an occasional show is a necessity in modern life, while the scribbles maintain it's a luxury.

Our own opinion is that going to a show is optional and depends on a great many things such as handy cash, etc. People may go to see a show, but they must eat and they must wear clothes, though this last condition is improving.

"Big flour and feed man" and "big hay and grain merchant" are the Broadway terms that have replaced "butter and egg man" when "heavy sugar" is being discussed.

Prince Bibesco, the Rumanian representative, is spending part of the summer doing Broadway, the beaches and Atlantic City. The other day he unburdened himself of the following:

"Some countries have beautiful women, others have brilliant women, but it is left to America to produce women who combine both beauty and brilliance." The Princess Bibesco is away in England visiting her mother, the renowned Margot. Both ladies hold a different opinion on American females. And the Prince may have to do some late explaining when "the leaves come tumbling down."

Seven movie magazines are running the true life stories of prominent screen actresses written, so it says, by the two Anglo-Saxon peoples to a better understanding of each other.

Refer to the land of dollars and jazz. But they're spending their own pounds now to hear Lewis and Lopez bring out the swaying, catching melodies.

Black Fascism.

The government of Italy, the country which long stood at the top among the most cultured and advanced nations of the world, keeps on degrading itself with acts of violence. And the way the blackshirt ruffians go about enforcing their will upon the country supplies us with some samples of the most miserable cowardice and detestable mob rule. One of the opposition deputies, who had been arrested and thrown into a prison, was taken to a hotel and though he sought refuge in a hotel the man was dragged out and beaten with clubs. Yet this is but one of the samples that crop to the surface because they involve a prominent personality. Parish priests and labor leaders are daily being intimidated and threatened with violence. The free speech is prohibited, homes of liberals and free-thinkers are burned or damaged by bombs. What is the difference between the Italian and that of the bolsheviks during the red terror? Mussolini set out to crush a red monster two years ago. He succeeded but at the same time he gave birth to a new beast whose color is utter blackness.

Crisis in Britain.

The Baldwin government in England is confronted with the most grilling test of modern times. A great industrial upheaval is under way and a quarter million workers have decided to down tools and strike against the owners' proposal to lower wages. Only the difference between the labor pay for where they are and where they would be if they were to go to the mines, is the difference between the labor pay for where they are and where they would be if they were to go to the mines.

THE GUMPS—FAIR AND WARMER

The Golden Beast

—BY—

E. Phillips Oppenheim

"We telephoned there an hour ago," Joseph replied. "Telephoned up to Scotland Yard, too. I don't think there is anything you can do, Amberleys. All the outdoor servants are spreading themselves over the place on bicycles. You might look after Judith for a bit perhaps. These shocks are bad enough for us men, but they're the devil for highly strung women."

Amberleys left the room, and Pauline prepared to follow his example.

"There's nothing I can do, I'm afraid," he said. "You'll make my excuses to Lady Honerton and Lady Judith, if I don't see her. I'm much obliged to you for an excellent shoot. Sorry this should have come to disturb you at the end of it."

Joseph set down his teacup noisily. "That's all right, Pauline," he rejoined. "Glad you could come, I'm sure. If there's no news, I shall be up in town tomorrow, if it's only to go and tell them what the shooting was. It's disgraceful! It's disgraceful, striking the table with his fist, suddenly overcome with a sense of personal injury. "Nearly twelve months ago my own son disappears from this house, walks out straight from this table in his evening clothes, and from that day to this nothing has been heard of him. And now his cousin, gone almost the same way. We've the worst police system in the world. I'd guarantee there isn't a country anywhere under the sun where two such disappearances could take place."

"Have you tried Samuel's father?" Pauline inquired.

"Not yet," his host admitted. "He's in such a feeble state that I'm really afraid of the shock for him. I shall either send some one from here with a letter or go and see them myself to-night. A pleasant journey to you, Pauline."

Pauline, making his preparations for departure, found much confusion in the household. The marquis, who had just descended, insisted upon telephoning personally to the chief constable at Norwich, who was a protégé of his. The marchioness, with a pencil in her hand, was making calculations from an ordinance map which hung in the back hall as to the distance to the nearest river. Several of the other guests were standing about talking in little groups, offering suggestions. "I don't know what to do," said the young cub home dead or alive. "Joyce, thoroughly serious for once in her life, accented in Pauline as he stood upon the broad steps of the entrance porch.

"Have you any theories, Sir Lawrence?" she asked.

"None whatever," he assured her. "My idea was that he had gone for an early morning walk."

"What about his bed not having been slept in?" she reminded him.

"I didn't know that till afterwards," Pauline admitted. "Perhaps he slept last night in an easy chair, then decided it was too late to turn in, had a bath and went off for a walk. I've done such a thing myself before now."

"She considered the idea for a moment," he said.

"It isn't like Samuel," she pronounced.

"The young man was naturally unlike himself last night," was the thoughtful reply. "He came round to tell me his good news. I may be permitted, I hope, to wish you very happy."

"Thank you very much," she murmured. "It's a queer start, isn't it?"

"Certainly," Pauline agreed. "However, I don't think you need be so greatly concerned. I cannot bring myself to look upon this disappearance seriously."

Futoy, immaculate in his black livery, brought his long gray car round to the front entrance with a workmanlike sweep. Pauline glanced back into the hall for a moment as he drew on his gloves.

"I am making rather an unceremonious departure," he confided. "I have not been able even to see Lady Judith to say good-bye."

"Judith went off to the garage half an hour ago and I haven't seen her since," Joyce told him. "I'll give her the usual messages. I cannot bring myself to look upon this disappearance seriously."

"Which way are you going up?" he asked him, as he stepped into the driving seat.

"Newmarket and Royston, I think," he answered.

He raised his cap, and swung off down the avenue. Judith, from the garage, saw him flash by. She turned to the man in keeper's livery who was standing by her side, holding a motorcycle.

"There goes the first of our departing guests," she pointed out.

"Who is it?"

"Sir Lawrence Pauline."

Rodes touched the switch off his bicycle, and pushed it clear of the door.

"Are you going to follow him?" Judith asked eagerly.

"Yes," was the terse reply. "What can you possibly learn from his movements?"

Rodes started his engine.

"Lady Judith," he said, "I can only remind you of a time when you spoke to me at the top of St. James' street. You advised me, I think, to discard facts and trust to instinct and imagination. We have allowed to the subliminal since, only a little more fully. I haven't the least idea why, but I have quite made up my mind to follow Sir Lawrence."

"You will never catch him. He confessed to having averaged fifty between Newmarket and here when he came down."

very much and has forbidden them in the park. This one belonged to one of the beaters, a stranger to the neighborhood. Lady Judith was talking to him this morning."

They were nearing the spot where the lane merged into the high road, and Pauline had apparently been preparing to turn towards Norwich, his announced route. At Futoy's words, however, he slowed down still more, looked steadfastly ahead of him for a second or two as though he had thought and then swung around to the right.

"Is it a powerful motor bicycle, Futoy?" he inquired.

"It is the best I ever saw, master," the man replied.

Pauline glanced at the black speck in the glass. It was certainly drawing nearer. He touched his accelerator slightly. The road was good but winding. At Fakenham he had almost to pull up in the narrow street down to the railway, and from Raynham to Swaffham again speed was almost impossible. The small black speck was always there. Pauline looked at it, frowning. He reduced his speed a little. The motor bicycle came no nearer. From Swaffham to Brandon he drove carefully, passing through Brandon so that even the policeman on duty gave scarcely a second glance at the car. Then he leaned forward with a faint smile. It was still November morning with a promise of weak sunshine behind the clouds. The air was soft but a trifle damp, the roads dry for the time of the year. In the great open spaces across which they sped hundreds of rabbits were sitting at their holes; there were patches of gorse still in bloom and even thin streaks of heather.

As they neared the village of Barton Mills, where the road merges into the main thoroughfare, Pauline leaning forward, increased the speed of the car until the black speck in the mirror became almost invisible. He turned the corner and suddenly began a slow application of his brakes, bending over to Futoy and giving him brief directions. As they crossed the bridge to the road by the inn, Pauline brought the car to a standstill, busied himself for a few seconds with the seat which he had vacated, and slipped into the yard of the hotel. Futoy, with the driving wheel in his hand, dashed off in second gear, and was out of sight in a moment, whilst Pauline entered the inn and stood at the window. In less than two minutes the impatient looking of a horn was heard, and immediately afterwards Rodes and his motor bicycle swung round into the road and headed for Newmarket, following the car which was now little more than a speck in the distance. Pauline watched both until they were out of sight.

The 12 miles an hour warning through Newmarket brought the car and the motor bicycle within reasonable distance of one another, but outside the town along by the race course and galloping ground, the car once more drew away. Rodes, who had owned a motor bicycle for less than a year and hated it, groaned as he leaned over his handles. Nothing was happening as he had expected, but yet he was loath to abandon the chase. The next 20 miles of perfect road he knew would be all against him, notwithstanding which he set his teeth and rode steadily on. The wind had brought the color into his pale cheeks, but his eyes, even beneath his heavy spectacles, were watering. Every bone in his body seemed aching, every nerve on edge. He kept his mind fixed upon his task, however, and ignored his discomfort. People shouted abuse at him on the main road; abuse to which he scarcely heeded. He drew a sigh of relief when his quarry turned off towards Royston—at least these narrower roads were a little more advantageous. Nevertheless, for another half hour the car kept its distance and nothing that he could do seemed able to lessen it. The railway gates stood open and the car seemed to take the crossing in its stride. Rodes, with clenched teeth, followed.

At Royston the car passed through the bottle neck construction by the inn at such a pace that the policeman, whose back had been turned for a moment, shouted angrily after it. Rodes, too, came in for his abuse, but he gained a little on the hill towards the downs. For a few more miles the speed seemed to be ever increasing. They had covered some two hours on the common as though they were standing still; Baldock in a few minutes became only a memory—and then came, at last, relief. Half way to Stevenage, Rodes, rocking in his seat, became conscious that the car in front was growing larger. He took off his spectacles for a moment and gave a little gasp. It had drawn to the side of the road and was stopping. He shut off his own engine and made a clumsy descent. Gripping one of the handles, he stood, leaning over the saddle in the middle of the road, gazing into Futoy's impassive face.

"The gentleman needs something?" Futoy asked courteously as he lit a cigarette.

"Where is your master?" Rodes demanded.

"Not with me today," Futoy replied cheerfully. "I drive the car alone."

"Your master started with you from Honerton Chase," Rodes declared, wheeling the bicycle up to the side of the car.

"It is quite true," was the grave assent. "My master he forgot something. He went back."

Rodes looked at the hat lying in the bottom of the car and the dog seats, and knew at once how he had been tricked. The fact, however, that such deception had been indulged in was like a tonic to him.

"When did your master leave the car?" he persisted.

"I am good English servant," Futoy announced. "I do not answer questions about my master. He leave the car when he choose."

"Look here," Rodes said. "You speak English quite well!"

"I speak English perfect," Futoy replied with dignity. "I understand, too."

JUST NUTS

"Never mind, Mr. Rodes," she said. "You looked very nice, and I am sure all this time out of doors must have been very good for you."

"You're positive," he asked earnestly. "That no one else in this household or anyone amongst the guests knew anything about me?"

"Not a soul."

"Not Sir Lawrence, for instance? I have kept carefully out of his sight."

"I am convinced," she assured him, "that Sir Lawrence has not an idea that you were in the neighborhood."

He mounted into the saddle and started off. Already miles ahead of him, Pauline was gradually opening his leaves.

Pauline slackened speed a little, until a small black object appeared in the center of his mirror.

"Were there many motor bicycles in the garage, Futoy?" he asked.

"Only one, master," the man replied. "His lordship dislikes them very much and has forbidden them in the park. This one belonged to one of the beaters, a stranger to the neighborhood. Lady Judith was talking to him this morning."

They were nearing the spot where the lane merged into the high road, and Pauline had apparently been preparing to turn towards Norwich, his announced route. At Futoy's words, however, he slowed down still more, looked steadfastly ahead of him for a second or two as though he had thought and then swung around to the right.

"Is it a powerful motor bicycle, Futoy?" he inquired.

"It is the best I ever saw, master," the man replied.

Pauline glanced at the black speck in the glass. It was certainly drawing nearer. He touched his accelerator slightly. The road was good but winding. At Fakenham he had almost to pull up in the narrow street down to the railway, and from Raynham to Swaffham again speed was almost impossible. The small black speck was always there. Pauline looked at it, frowning. He reduced his speed a little. The motor bicycle came no nearer. From Swaffham to Brandon he drove carefully, passing through Brandon so that even the policeman on duty gave scarcely a second glance at the car. Then he leaned forward with a faint smile. It was still November morning with a promise of weak sunshine behind the clouds. The air was soft but a trifle damp, the roads dry for the time of the year. In the great open spaces across which they sped hundreds of rabbits were sitting at their holes; there were patches of gorse still in bloom and even thin streaks of heather.

As they neared the village of Barton Mills, where the road merges into the main thoroughfare, Pauline leaning forward, increased the speed of the car until the black speck in the mirror became almost invisible. He turned the corner and suddenly began a slow application of his brakes, bending over to Futoy and giving him brief directions. As they crossed the bridge to the road by the inn, Pauline brought the car to a standstill, busied himself for a few seconds with the seat which he had vacated, and slipped into the yard of the hotel. Futoy, with the driving wheel in his hand, dashed off in second gear, and was out of sight in a moment, whilst Pauline entered the inn and stood at the window. In less than two minutes the impatient looking of a horn was heard, and immediately afterwards Rodes and his motor bicycle swung round into the road and headed for Newmarket, following the car which was now little more than a speck in the distance. Pauline watched both until they were out of sight.

The 12 miles an hour warning through Newmarket brought the car and the motor bicycle within reasonable distance of one another, but outside the town along by the race course and galloping ground, the car once more drew away. Rodes, who had owned a motor bicycle for less than a year and hated it, groaned as he leaned over his handles. Nothing was happening as he had expected, but yet he was loath to abandon the chase. The next 20 miles of perfect road he knew would be all against him, notwithstanding which he set his teeth and rode steadily on. The wind had brought the color into his pale cheeks, but his eyes, even beneath his heavy spectacles, were watering. Every bone in his body seemed aching, every nerve on edge. He kept his mind fixed upon his task, however, and ignored his discomfort. People shouted abuse at him on the main road; abuse to which he scarcely heeded. He drew a sigh of relief when his quarry turned off towards Royston—at least these narrower roads were a little more advantageous. Nevertheless, for another half hour the car kept its distance and nothing that he could do seemed able to lessen it. The railway gates stood open and the car seemed to take the crossing in its stride. Rodes, with clenched teeth, followed.

At Royston the car passed through the bottle neck construction by the inn at such a pace that the policeman, whose back had been turned for a moment, shouted angrily after it. Rodes, too, came in for his abuse, but he gained a little on the hill towards the downs. For a few more miles the speed seemed to be ever increasing. They had covered some two hours on the common as though they were standing still; Baldock in a few minutes became only a memory—and then came, at last, relief. Half way to Stevenage, Rodes, rocking in his seat, became conscious that the car in front was growing larger. He took off his spectacles for a moment and gave a little gasp. It had drawn to the side of the road and was stopping. He shut off his own engine and made a clumsy descent. Gripping one of the handles, he stood, leaning over the saddle in the middle of the road, gazing into Futoy's impassive face.

"The gentleman needs something?" Futoy asked courteously as he lit a cigarette.

IT'S NO USE—THE FISH WON'T BITE ON A RED HOT DAY LIKE THIS—IF A LITTLE BREEZE WOULD SPRING UP WE MIGHT GET A FEW FISH BUT I NEVER COULD FIGURE OUT A WAY TO MAKE FISH BITE ON A SCORCHING HOT DAY—

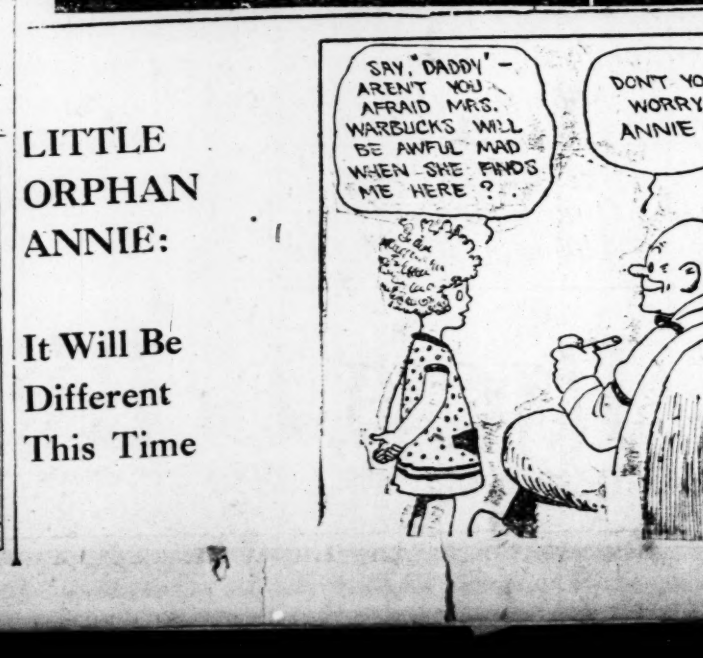

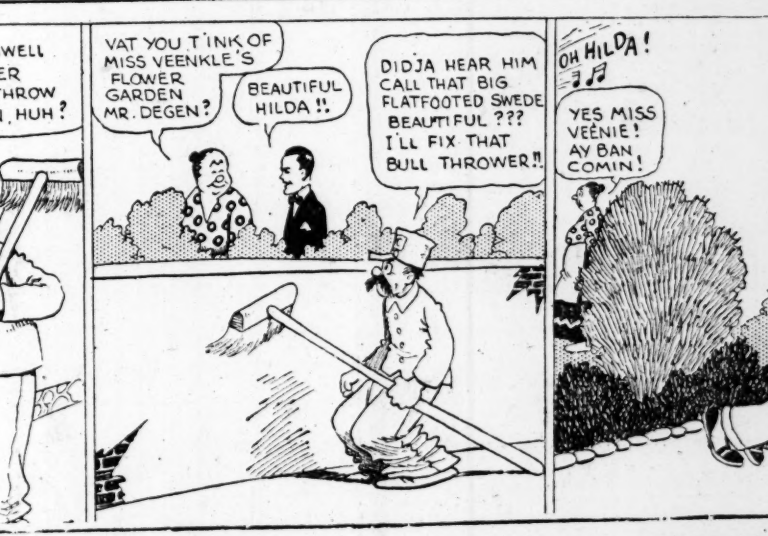

THEN BUILD A COMBINATION ELECTRIC FAN AND CORN POPPER—THEN YOU COULD GIVE THEM ANYTHING FROM A SNOW-STORM TO A CYCLONE—WHEN THE CORN STARTED TO POP THE FISH WOULD COME OUT TO ENJOY THE BLIZZARD—THROW AWAY YOUR ROD, TIE YOUR LINE TO AN ICICLE, PUT SLEIGH BELLS ON THE BOAT, HANG YOUR STOCKINGS OVERBOARD AND THE FISH WILL THINK IT'S THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS—

BE CAREFUL AND DON'T MAKE THE SCENE TOO REALISTIC OR SOME OF THE FISH WILL FREEZE TO DEATH—IT WOULDN'T BE A BAD IDEA TO RUN A LOT OF STEAM PIPES ACROSS THE LAKE AND THEN YOU COULD ALWAYS FURNISH THE KIND OF WEATHER THE CUSTOMERS WANT—USE A THERMOMETER WITH A HOOK ON THE END OF IT SO THE FISH COULD SEE THE TEMPERATURE WAS CORRECT BEFORE THEY SAT DOWN TO DINE—WHEN YOU HAVE EVERYTHING FIXED RIGHT SEND FOR ME AND I'LL CATCH ALL THE FISH YOU WANT—

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE:

It Will Be Different This Time

Day's Social Calendar Features Wedding and Affairs for Visitors

The outstanding social event of the day will be the marriage of Miss Janet Ewins and Lieutenant Commander Harry G. Cooper, U. S. N., which will take place at high noon at St. Luke's Episcopal church, the Rev. Hiram K. Douglas, of Columbia, Tenn., officiating. This marriage unites two prominent families and centers the interest of the entire social world. Visitors continue to hold their own on the calendar of the day's events. Miss Sarah Bullock, of Columbus, Ga., the attractive guest of Miss Theodosia Beckham, will be honored at the bridge-tee at which Miss Dorothy Popham will entertain at her home on Peachtree street this afternoon.

Miss Mary Armstrong will give a lovely tea at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue, the occasion to be in honor of her guest, Miss Dorothy Stein. Mrs. Roy Harrison, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Franklin Mikell, will be the central figure when Mrs. Rogers Toy is hostess at tea at her home in Ansley Park.

A charming bride-elect of Thursday will be the honor guest at the bridge-luncheon at which Mrs. W. L. Harper will entertain. Mrs. Robert Woodruff will be hostess at a delightful tea at the Piedmont Driving club this afternoon, honoring two charming visitors, Mrs. Homer Thompson, of Charlotte, N. C., and Mrs. Carl Thompson, of Los Angeles, Cal. Another lovely party will be that at which Mrs. Violet Tripple Ilges will entertain in honor of Miss Frederica Loesch, the house guest of Mrs. Thomas Monroe.

Other affairs of interest will be the dinner-dance at the Atlanta Biltmore and the al fresco dinner at the Piedmont Driving club, when all Atlanta society of various ages will be present at these out-of-door affairs, where the beautiful moon and the cooling breezes make the heat of the day easily forgotten, while the soft strains of beautifully rendered dance music add to the charm of these occasions.

Dr. and Mrs. Parsons Honor Mrs. Dekin.

A beautiful affair of the past week was the supper at which Dr. and Mrs. M. B. Parsons entertained in honor of Mrs. J. Dekin, of Washington, District of Columbia.

Fidelis Class Will Entertain.

The Fidelis class of West End Baptist church, will entertain at a school party Thursday evening at 7:15 o'clock. All members invited to come dressed as school children.

Miss Yancey Is Honored.

Miss Jewel Yancey, a bride-elect of August, was entertained at a delicious shower Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Nelle West, 879 Gordon street.

Mr. and Mrs. Choate Entertain at Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wade will be guests of honor at a bridge party given by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Choate at their home in Ansley Park this evening. Invited to meet the honor guests are the members of one of the Ansley Park Bridge clubs.

Miss Anita Wingo Honors Miss Brooks.

Miss Anita Wingo, assisted by Miss Annette Brooks, will entertain at a lovely party Saturday night, July 25, at her home on Morgan street. Dancing was enjoyed during the evening.

Decatur Woman's Club To Give Parties.

The Decatur Woman's club will sponsor two benefit bridge parties on Friday, July 31, to be given at the home of Mrs. W. S. Young, 202 Ponce de Leon place, at 11 o'clock. On August 2 an al fresco affair will be given in the yard of Mrs. Frank Doughman's home, 303 Ponce de Leon place.

Any who wish to make reservations for these parties call Mrs. W. S. Young or Mrs. Frank Doughman.

Baron DeKalb D. A. R. Chapter Meets.

The Baron DeKalb chapter, D. A. R., met Friday at the home of Mrs. A. L. Wade in Decatur. The summer meetings are social and informal. The chapter doubled its monthly contribution to the school clinic operated by the county board of health, after hearing the semiannual report of work in rural districts.

Mrs. C. H. David read a paper on the origin of the D. A. R., honoring Mrs. Mary S. Lockwood as the founder of the idea. Two violin solos were rendered by Miss Mary Leffingwell, accompanied by Miss Irene Leffingwell, with a comprehension of art that predicts professional success for these two young artists.

The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by her daughters, Misses Susie and Gladia Wade, and Miss Catherine Compton.

Luncheon Party Honors Visitor.

Miss Kitty Robertson, of Richmond, Va., is visiting her cousin, Miss Ann Kessnich, at her home in the Della Manta apartments and will be the central figure at a luncheon party given by Mrs. W. S. Young, 202 Ponce de Leon place, at 11 o'clock.

Are You One of the 7? or Should You Be?

Make this test for yourself. Next time you walk down the street, count the number of people who wear glasses. You will find they average 7 out of 10. But many of those who do not wear glasses should do so. The only way to be sure is to consult an able optician. Why not see Hawkes' experts today? An examination costs you nothing.

Mrs. Howard Ennis Is Entertained

By Mrs. Hendrix

Mrs. J. Howard Ennis, of Milledgeville, wife of President Ennis of the state senate, was entertained Tuesday afternoon at tea at East Lake by Mrs. Walter Hendrix, wife of Senator Hendrix.

Assisting Mrs. Ennis and Mrs. Hendrix in entertaining were Mrs. Clifford Walker, Mrs. Walter Sims, Mrs. John K. Otley, Mrs. A. G. Foster, Mrs. E. D. Cole and Mrs. B. F. Neal.

Miss Gladys Neal and Miss Jane Dillon, Mrs. Walter Dillon, Mrs. Spurgeon King and Mrs. J. F. Bawter served.

of Fort McPherson, sang several beautiful selections.

At the conclusion of the dinner and at the introduction of Major W. J. McGaughey, Eighth Infantry, the toastmaster, Lieutenant Barr of the first platoon, Fourth Tank company, bade farewell to the general on behalf of his organization. Major L. B. Clapham, on behalf of the headquarters and staff, spoke feelingly of their association with General Winans and regret at his departure.

Following luncheon Mrs. Harrison was honored by Mrs. Clement Evans at an informal tea at the Brookhaven Country club. The guests included a small group of friends.

Mrs. Arnold Is Hostess.

Mrs. Lowry Arnold was hostess Tuesday afternoon at the Druid Hills Golf club. The guests included a group of close friends of the hostess. Mrs. Arnold will leave Thursday for Asheville, N. C., where she will spend a month at Grove Park Inn.

Miss Lillian Wood To Be Honored Guest.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Spears will entertain at dinner Thursday evening at the Capital City club roof garden in honor of Miss Lillian Wood, of Richmond, Va., the guest of Miss Margaret Holcomb. Six guests have been invited to meet Miss Wood.

Prominent Atlantans Will Judge Contest.

Mrs. Chester Johnson, departmental chairman of the West End Woman's club; Mrs. T. T. Stevens, past president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs; Fred Brooks, Lambdin Kay and Cliff Wheatley will act as judges at the dancing contest held at the Parody club Wednesday evening. The young lady winner will be given a silver loving cup, and the most graceful young man dancer will be given a gold pin.

Miami Visitors To Be Honored.

Mrs. Frederic Grandall will entertain at luncheon Thursday, July 30, at the Piedmont Driving club, the occasion to compliment Misses Lydia Foster and Kate C. Shaffer, of Miami, Fla., who are visiting Mrs. Henry Havens, at her home on Peachtree road, and are being entertained at a series of informal parties.

Mrs. James Spears was hostess at a small and informal bridge-tee Tuesday afternoon, at her home on Peachtree road, with these attractive Florida visitors at honor guests.

General Winans Honored By Brigade Officers.

Anniston, Ala., July 28.—The officers and ladies of the Eighth Infantry brigade, now in summer training camp here, bade a formal farewell to General Edwin B. Winans, who has been brigade commander for the past two years, in a delightful dinner and dance at the Alabama hotel in Anniston, on Saturday evening, July 25.

The banquet room in the Alabama was decorated with the colors and guidons of the entire brigade, and with bunting and small flags, the prevailing motif being the use of a single five-pointed star, emblematic of General Winans' rank and command. Music by the Eighth and Twenty-Second Infantry orchestras furnished additional entertainment, with special numbers and Miss Jean Kindricks.

Capital City Roof Is Lovely Scene

Of Dinner-Dance

The cool, delightful and ever-popular roof at the Capital City club was the scene Tuesday evening of one of the most enjoyable dinner-dances of the season when many congenial groups gathered for dinner and dancing Tuesday evening. The beautiful summer moon and the softly glowing lights from shaded Japanese lanterns added to the charm of the already attractive spot.

The tables were placed around the edge of the dance floor and were attractively decorated with artistic arrangements of garden flowers. The delicate vines and growing plants in the boxes on the balustrades formed a beautiful background for the swaying groups of dancers. Quite a number of reservations were made for dinner and many parties gathered later for dancing.

Misses Lydia Foster and Kate C. Shaffer, of Miami, Fla., who are visiting Mrs. Henry Havens, were among the attractive visitors who were central figures in a party.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ennis, of Milledgeville; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Neill, of Macon; Mrs. J. C. Miller, and Mrs. Jack Chambers, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Yopp.

Many Parties Given For Army Couple From Camp Benning

Captain and Mrs. Frank J. Pearson, of Camp Benning, where Captain Pearson has been senior instructor of the infantry department for the past four years, are being delightfully entertained as the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore Pearson.

Monday evening they were honored at a porch party given by Mrs. Carson at her home, when several close friends were invited to meet them. This evening Mrs. L. T. Stallings will be hostess at dinner at the new Carlton hotel in honor of these visitors and later in the evening Moore Pearson will entertain at a theater party in their honor.

Many parties were given for Captain and Mrs. Pearson during the past week, most prominent among these being several box parties at the municipal light opera performances. It is with genuine regret that the friends of this interesting couple will learn of their departure for their home at Camp Benning.

Mrs. Little Honors Visitors.

Mrs. James R. Little entertained at a swimming party Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the woman's club in honor of Miss Mary Bostrom, of Montreal, Canada, who is spending the summer with her aunt, Mrs. W.

H. Letton, and also for Miss Virginia Harris, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Harris.

After the swim the tea was served from a handsomely appointed table placed on the terrace. Mrs. W. H. Letton, Mrs. Robert Bostrom and Miss Elizabeth Little assisted in entertaining.

Mrs. Kenneth Goode Is Feted Guest.

Mrs. Kenneth Goode, of New York, who is the feted guest of her mother, Mrs. Milner B. Hutchins, was honor guest Tuesday at an informal bridge-tea at which Mrs. Robert Parker entertained. After the game, tea was served of the daintily appointed individual card tables. The guests included eight friends of the hostess, all of whom are former members of an old card club, of which Mrs. Goode was a member.

Fifty-Eight Years Serving Atlanta---RICH'S

Forward Atlanta!

ATLANTA, Cultural City of the South—City of beautiful homes, Seat of Learning for sons and daughters of fair Dixie, truly the Gate City to this prosperous Empire of the Southeast! The eyes of the whole country are on you, Atlanta! Wherever thinking men gather from New York to California, their conversation turns eventually to praise of this glorious city—the metropolis of the South.

Forward, Atlanta! . . . The city that rose from ashes to splendor in scarcely half a century can know no bounds to its possibilities of growth, expansion, development in the fuller years ahead.

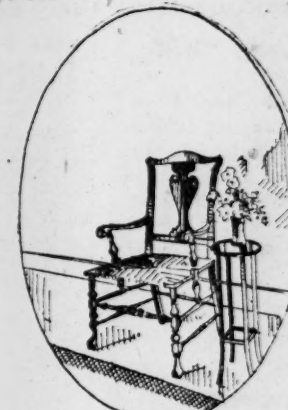

1925 Will Go Down in History as Home-Building Year in Atlanta!

Statistics show that the greater part of building carried on for the first six months of 1925 has been for dwellings—for HOMES.

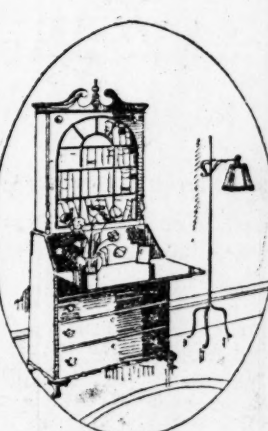

It is not without significance, either, that First Prize was awarded to this city in the National Better Homes Contest.

Dennis-Nowell Wedding Is Beautiful Home Event

The marriage of Miss Martha Elizabeth Dennis to Edmund Newton Nowell, of Miami, Fla., formerly of Monroe, Ga., was a beautiful social event of Tuesday evening, being impressively solemnized at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Champion, in Druid Hills.

The Rev. Dr. Henry B. Mays, pastor of the Inman Park Methodist church, performed the ceremony before an assemblage of relatives and friends. Preceding the marriage service, Mrs. John M. Cooper sang "Until," accompanied at the piano by Miss Alice Smith. During the gathering of the guests and ceremony, an orchestra rendered appropriate music.

Beautiful Decorations

The bridal party stood in the spacious living room where the marriage was solemnized, a profusion of palms and delicately tinted gladioli flanked the side walls and French windows. Clusters of orchid shaded gladioli and budaea were attractively arranged throughout the reception rooms combined with foliage plants and ferns. Garlands of smilax studded with gladioli were suspended from the arches and from the banisters of the broad stairway which the bridal party descended.

Wedding Attendants

The ribbon bearers, Misses Virginia Zachary, Elizabeth Harwell, Venita Harwell and Jennie Chapman, entered first to the Lohengrin wedding march. They carried the latest fashions of orchid chiffon in the various trims trimmed in cream lace and hand-made flowers.

Misses Hilda McConnell, of Royston, Ga.; Sarah Smith, Jean Williams, Frances Cooper and Margaret Foster were the bridesmaids. They wore exquisite chiffon gowns in the various shades of pink and lavender. The bridesmaids wore long flowing sleeves and skirts fell from soft shirings and were ornamented with bows of narrow white ribbon holding sprays of pastel satin roses. They carried bouquets of Columbia roses and budaea tied with lavender tulle.

The maid of honor, Miss Mary Lucy Nowell, of Monroe, Ga., sister of the groom, was beautifully gowned in the palest shade of orchid chiffon. Lovingly Chantilly lace outlined the handkerchief point of the skirt and overskirt and repeated the design in the deep vee and top of the full circular sleeves. A graceful sash of orchid satin ribbon fell from a large bow at the left back shoulder and she carried Columbia roses and budaea tied with lavender tulle.

The bride's mother, Mrs. John T. Dennis, was her matron of honor. She wore a handsome model of orchid crepe in the deepest shade. Tiny handkerchiefs trimmed the smart gown alternating with hands of rose point lace. A bowknot of orchid satin ribbon adorned the back of the bodice at the left shoulder, the ends extending to a graceful length. Her bouquet of Columbia roses and budaea was carried in a small basket of pink roses and valley lilies.

The lovely young bride was given in marriage by her father, John T. Dennis. The groom was attended by his best man, John McHenry Hill. The bride's gown was fashioned of white chiffon effectively combined with duchess lace. The skirt was formed of a circular drape which fell over a deep hem of the same material. The bride's hair was styled in a lovely lace introduced on the bodice. Long flowing chiffon sleeves bordered with the lace added grace to the beautiful gown, while a train of the chiffon edged at the bottom with the deep lace was attached to the shoulders with bows of orange blossoms. The exquisite veil of silk tulle was adjusted to the hair by a bandeau of soft shirings and orange blossoms. She carried a real lace handkerchief worn by her mother at her marriage. Her bouquet of white lilies added to the exquisite loveliness of the bride.

Little Miss Annie Frances Smith, of LaGrange, Ga., bore the wedding ring in the center of a lily. She wore a frock made of alternating orchid and flesh chiffon. The bride's hair was styled in a lovely lace introduced on the bodice. Long flowing chiffon sleeves bordered with the lace added grace to the beautiful gown, while a train of the chiffon edged at the bottom with the deep lace was attached to the shoulders with bows of orange blossoms. President Coolidge Gives Endorsement To Movie Season

From President Coolidge's summer home he has sent a letter to Will H. Hays, chief of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., commending the greater movie season, the letter saying:

"I have been called to the fact that you are celebrating the 25th anniversary of the moving picture industry on an occasion to inaugurate a greater movie season. I am glad to see that you are emphasizing the desirability of worthy motion pictures which will be of real public value. The progress that has been made in both education and entertainment in this tremendous enterprise is an outstanding achievement of the opening years of this century. I congratulate you and wish you a continuation of your success."

"Very truly yours,"
"CALVIN COOLIDGE"

That Atlanta has been selected as one of the 18 cities in the country to inaugurate the greater movie season is indicative of the fact that the Atlanta motion picture fan is of a very discriminating nature, said W. T. Murray, manager of the Rialto theatre, who is cooperating with a small but to be noticed fashion of the greater movie season, which begins here next Monday. Atlanta has been one of the finest theaters south of Washington, said Mr. Murray, and usually gets the same pictures that New York and Chicago get on the same release dates.

All the theaters in Atlanta—the Rialto, the Metropolitan, the Howard, the Tudor, the Cameo, the Alpha, the Alamo No. 2, Loew's Grand, the Alamo No. 1, and the Alamo No. 3—are cooperating in this new arrangement.

Abernathy Reports He Was Horse-Whipped By Band of Seven Men

Assigning as their reason the charge that "he did not support his family," seven men Monday night administered a severe beating to W. F. Abernathy, of Rice street, a told county police and city detectives Tuesday.

The men stole their way into the Abernathy home, in Hills Park, and awakened Abernathy from his slumber, he said. Blindfolded, he was carried to a waiting car that spirited him into some woods near the Chattahoochee river, where the lash was applied.

Mrs. Abernathy, who was sleeping in another room, told police that the affair had not disturbed her and she knew nothing of it until informed by her husband Tuesday morning.

MARKET QUOTATION
BILL DISAPPROVED

An unfavorable report on a bill by Senator C. H. Hutchison to prohibit discrimination in dissemination of market quotations on cotton and other crops will be made today to the senate by the agricultural committee.

Judge Arthur G. Powell spoke against the bill in committee meeting Tuesday afternoon, while Senator Hutchison, J. S. Shottsworth, J. S. Winnett, and W. B. Bullard, of Palmetto, argued for its passage. Judge Powell declared the bill would permit market shops to operate, and would be unconstitutional.

The committee acted favorably on a house bill by Representative DeLoach, of Chatham county, to establish official United States naval standards as the standards of Georgia.

Action was postponed on a bill by Senator C. H. Hutchison to prevent shipment into Georgia of tick-infested cattle and to provide for the state, instead of counties, to bear expense of tick eradication. Senator Hutchison said he wanted the committee to thoroughly satisfy itself on the merits of the bill before acting upon it, and at the next meeting. Peter Baldwin, state veterinarian, and others interested will be requested to speak on the measure.

VANDERBILT ARRIVES.

Napier, legislator from Bibb county; J. P. McGrath, secretary of the Georgia Manufacturers' association; Mrs. Roy G. Jones, president of the Decatur Women's club; H. M. Stanley, commissioner of commerce and labor; Mrs. Alonzo Richards, legislator from the city and county of DeKalb; Mrs. H. G. Hastings, president of the fifth district Federation of Women's Clubs; T. L. Pickens, senator from the fourth district; C. W. Cunningham, president Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs; L. F. Johnson, senator from the 27th district; Mrs. W. B. Price-Smyth, chairman of applied education and scholarship affairs of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Arthur I. Hazard, state chairman of transportation of the Atlanta Women's club; Burr Blackburn, secretary of the Council of Social Agencies and of the Children's Code commission; James K. Dobbis, representative of the Atlanta Journal; M. L. Moore, printing department of the senate; Mrs. Guy Woolford, vice president of the Atlanta Women's club, and Mrs. T. T. Stevens, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs for the past two years, just succeeding Mrs. Rambo, present president.

Mrs. Rambo introduced, in her charming manner, the guests, each giving a short talk. Mr. McLaren, president of the senate, stated that the presidents were heartily in favor of the child labor amendment, and he pledged for them their absolute cooperation.

Mr. Miller made a motion that the child labor amendment bill as drawn and approved by the committee and passed by the committee. The motion was unanimously passed, and every member of the committee pledged his vote and unstinting support of the bill, it was made clear at the luncheon.

Mrs. Rambo closed the short meeting after the luncheon with a word of gratitude to the committee for their presence at the luncheon. "We women of Georgia want the men to know that we are caring for you, and we know that to bring this about we must first make our citizens four-square. To do this, our children must be taken care of. Study men and women cannot be developed from under-nourished, uneducated children. Our hearts, minds and efforts are for these men who come to Atlanta to fight for a better Georgia."

City To Honor
Bryan's Memory
With Services

With leaders of church and state on hand to deliver fitting eulogies, Atlanta will gather at the city auditorium at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon to honor the memory of William Jennings Bryan, who died Sunday at Dayton, Ohio.

Plans, as made Tuesday morning by a special memorial committee appointed by Mayor Walter A. Sims, call for addresses by a number of prominent Atlantans, with former Senator Hoke Smith in the role of principal speaker. Mayor Sims will preside.

An address will be given by Dr. Edwin Aiken will open the services, after which Dr. Dunbar Ogden will lead the invocation. The hymn, "One Sweetly Sounded Name," will be sung by Mrs. Susan Bowen Johnson and Soloists Drunkenmiller and will be followed by "Nearer My God, to Thee" by the choir.

Prayers will be read by Mr. Bryan in short addresses by Governor Clifford Walker, Mrs. D. F. Stephenson, vice president of the Atlanta Women's club, Dr. Charles H. Smith, of the Georgia Anti-Slavery league. The audience then will sing "America" just before Mr. Smith delivers the main address.

Prayers will be read by Dr. W. H. Faust, of the Gordon Street Baptist church, will close the services.

AIRPLANE HANGAR
WORK WILL START
WITHIN FEW DAYS

Construction of an airplane hangar on the municipal landing field near Hapeville will be started within a few days, it was announced Tuesday by Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, chairman of the landing field committee, and W. A. Hansell, chief of construction.

The framework for the hangar, which is the type used during the war, has been purchased from the state highway department. Chief Hansell stated that it would take several weeks to complete the work. The hangar will be 60 by 120 feet, and will provide shelter for eight average-sized planes. It will be located adjoining the northwest corner of the flying field.

Use of the hangar will be free, and will be open to visiting pilots and commercial pilots located at Candler field.

CLEAR AND COOLER
Showers Tuesday Keep Temperature at Low Level.

Clear skies with the mercury ranging from 65 to 85 degrees, a forecast for Atlanta today and the rest of the week by C. F. von Herrmann, head of the local weather bureau, and W. A. Hansell, chief of construction.

The Washington forecast for the state at large was partly cloudy with showers in the extreme south portion. Tuesday's high temperature was 88 degrees, which was reached about noon. Showers kept the mercury from climbing higher later in the day, Mr. von Herrmann stated.

MISS CHRISTINE LACEY INJURED BY BICYCLIST

Miss Christine Lacey, 16, of 52 East Georgia avenue, was cut and bruised late Tuesday afternoon when she was struck by a bicycle at Georgia and Central avenues. She was taken to her home and is being treated by the family physician.

The bicyclist, J. C. Trimble, 15-year-old negro boy, is said to have passed an eastbound Georgia avenue street car, from which Miss Lacey had alighted, on the left, was arrested by Municipal Officers Hamilton and Jones and carried to the juvenile detention home. He is charged with reckless riding of a bicycle.

Sam Weisman, 2, and Broughton Caldwell,
18, Treated.

Two Atlantans were treated at the Grady hospital Tuesday for wounds inflicted by dogs believed to have been suffering from rabies.

Victims are Sam Weisman, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weisman, who run a store near 169 Ellis street, and Broughton Caldwell, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Caldwell, 262 Crumley street.

The victims were attacked near their respective homes. The little Weisman boy had his arm severely lacerated by the dog's teeth.

WOMAN NEARLY INSANE

"I was nervous, could not sleep, melancholy and nearly insane at times," says Mrs. T. A. Saunders, of 711 E. Depot street, Knoxville, Tenn. "After being in this condition nearly three years I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and took it. It made me a well woman. I gained 22 lbs. in weight and have not had a bit of trouble since. I hope it will do as much for other women as it has for me." Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is one dependable remedy for female ills.—(adv.)

HIGHWAY PROBE TO BEGIN TODAY

Preliminary action in a probe of alleged illegal expenditures of the state highway department will be taken at 2 o'clock this afternoon when a state senate investigation committee will meet at the Henry Grady hotel. Authority for the probe was granted by the senate Tuesday in passing a resolution by Senator J. R. Hutcheson. The resolution carried by a vote of 27 to 13.

Members of the inquisitorial body are Senator Hutcheson, chairman; Senator J. A. Dixon, of the 17th district; Senator H. J. Carswell, of the 23d; Senator E. E. Andrews, of the 25th; Senator J. C. Collier, of the 30th.

Provision is contained in the resolution for gathering information concerning the highway department, but not for summoning witnesses, compelling attendance or taking testimony on oath, as that would necessitate joint action by the senate and the house.

Passage of four general bills included a fight on the forestry contract act by Senator J. H. Parker, of the 2d district.

The forestry bill passed by a vote of 39 to 2.

Senator H. B. Wilkinson fought passage of the bill providing for a state high school supervisor, but supporters of the bill polled enough votes to pass it by a large majority.

Unanimous vote for passage was given the credit unions bill and the bill providing for a state board of embalmers.

New Sales Tax Bill. Senator H. P. DeLaPierre, of the 23d district, announced that he is preparing for introduction of a sales tax bill on all luxuries, with a provision for removing the present ad valorem tax.

There already are two sales tax bills before the senate, one by Senator Harrell to tax all articles sold and to provide for a state and county levy of 5 mills each on stocks, bonds, etc., and another by Senator Collier providing for a sales tax on everything from physicians' services to candy.

Members of the senate Western & Atlantic committee will make their biennial inspection of the state-owned railroad lines Friday and Saturday. Special cars will leave the union station at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, arriving in Chattanooga at 9 o'clock at night. The night will be spent at the Hotel Patton, and the inspection of the properties will be made Saturday. The return trip will start at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, arriving in Atlanta at 7:55 o'clock Saturday night. Senator Carl N. Guess is chairman of the committee.

May Tax Dogs. Consideration will be given a bill proposing a tax on dogs at 7:30 o'clock.

tonight in the meeting of the finance committee at the Henry Grady hotel. Railroads would be required to furnish local engineers as pilots for all trains over foreign roads by a bill reported favorably Tuesday by the committee on railroads.

Special judiciary committee favorably reported a house bill prohibiting Sunday dancing, and a bill to enable insurance companies to invest not more than 15 per cent of their assets in buildings for use for home office purposes. The committee also recommended, for passage a bill abolishing the fee system in the superior courts of the Cherokee judicial circuit. Unfavorable report was given on a house bill to repeal the act establishing the circuit court of Blakely when Senator Miller spoke in opposition to the measure.

Tax on Dogs. Members of the senate finance committee will act at 7:30 o'clock tonight on a bill providing for imposition of a per capita tax on dogs. The committee also has before it the motor bus regulation bill. The meeting will be held at the Henry Grady hotel.

The banks and banking committee of the senate meets at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Henry Grady hotel to act on the banking act amendments.

Senator H. B. Wilkinson announced Tuesday afternoon that he plans introduction of a bill within the next future to make sellers of seed to farmers guarantee the seed will produce results claimed by the sellers. Farmers are being defrauded in many instances and have no remedy when they buy seed and find it will not produce as much as claimed by the seed dealer.

Coolidge Takes Stand
For Pies of Blueberries
Against Huckleberries

Swampscott, Mass., July 28.—President Coolidge has taken a hand in the great pie battle.

Usually neutral in controversial matters, especially those outside the government, the chief executive's palate would not let him remain a non-combatant in the argument between New England, which espouses the cause of the blueberry, and New York, which supports the huckleberry with all its vigor.

Mr. Coolidge's intervention consisted of eating blueberry pie, demonstrating his support of the New England tradition, which dispenses huckleberries as insipid things, especially for pie material.

Ralph S. Bauer, of Lynn, republican leader and old friend of the Coolidges, brought no less than eight quarts of luscious blueberries to the summer white house.

It is reported that Mrs. Coolidge herself took a hand in preparing the famous New England delicacies into pie for the table.

GOTHAM ENGINEERS THREATEN TO STRIKE

New York, July 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—An important corps in New York's great white collar working army today raised the standard of revolt.

The municipal engineers, 3,500 strong and representing the largest single aggregation of their profession in the world outside of military establishments, completed an organization which has for its object improvement of salary and working conditions "comparable with the dignity, training and responsibility of the position."

The movement has aroused interest among other professions, whose members, despite years of preparation, receive less compensation than the recently arrived immigrant engineers of a compressed air drill or of a brick hod.

The Association of Engineers of New York, formed at a meeting last night, representing every city department, approved the resubmission to the city authorities of their demand for a flat increase of 25 per cent in salary and for amelioration of working conditions.

SCHOOL MERGER IS ASKED IN BILL

Among new bills introduced in the house Tuesday was one which would allow consolidation of the Atlanta school system with schools in that portion of the city which lies in DeKalb county. The bill also would permit Atlanta and Fulton county to merge their two school systems, if desired.

The measure was introduced by Representative Wood, of Spalding, and it is understood that some, if not all, of the Fulton delegation are opposed to it. It is said that the bill was drawn by officials of the Atlanta school system.

Another new bill introduced Tuesday by Representative Lawton, of Chatham, and others, would create a state tax and budget commission, consisting of the comptroller general and two commissioners to be appointed by the governor. The measure also provides for repeal of the state equalization law.

The tax commission would be authorized to summon witnesses, examine the books of business concerns and recommend prosecution of those failing to comply with the law. It also would be charged with general supervision of the tax system of the state, study of the system in this state and others, making of recommendations to the legislature based on such study, and drafting a proposed state budget.

GREEN PROTESTS
TEXTILE WAGE CUT

Washington, July 28.—(AP)—Protest against reduction of wages in the textile industry was made today by President Green, of the American Federation of Labor, who declared such action not to be based on reason, fairness or justice.

Mr. Green wrote to Robert Amor, president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, and to Andrew G. Pierce, president of the American Woolen company, declaring action taken by them represented "the power of force and might."

"It is economically and morally wrong," he said, "to reduce the purchasing power of the workers engaged in textile manufacturing through the imposition, by force, of a reduction in wages while wage levels are being maintained in practically all other lines of industry."

DENMARK BOND ISSUE TO BE OFFERED TODAY

New York, July 28.—(AP)—The $30,000,000 loan for the kingdom of Denmark, recently awarded to the Guaranty company of New York, will be placed on the market tomorrow simultaneously with offerings of substantial amounts of the issue of that of Holland and Switzerland. The loan takes the form of 20-year 5 1/2 per cent bonds. Priced at 99 1/4 in New York and 99 1/4 abroad.

Proceeds from the sale will be used in large part to retire on October 15 at 110 and interest the outstanding 8 per cent dollar bonds issued here in 1920.

Advance inquiries for the bonds, bankers declared, assured the success of the loan.

CHEMISTS DISAGREE IN BOSTON WILL CASE

Boston, July 28.—(AP)—Chemists, called as expert witnesses in Suffolk probate court disagreed as to the age of an entry on the fly leaf of a family Bible on which Mrs. Ida Manning Blankenburg, of Tulsa, Okla., bases her claim to the $3,000,000 estate of Lotta Crabtree, Boston actress. The inscription on the Bible page says: "Ida Manning Crabtree was born October 18, 1875, in England at Crabtree Manor, Lancashire, and is the daughter of George Manning and Lotta Crabtree Manning (an actress)."

Professor Augustus H. Gill, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Wilbur P. Turner, a handwriting expert, testified that the inscription was recent in date, while Charles A. Schmidt, of Reading, chemist for an ink manufacturing company testified that he believed the writing was old.

The hearing is on the motion of the special administrators of the Crabtree estate to strike out the appearance of Mrs. Blankenburg.

CONSUELO VANDERBILT
UNDERGOES OPERATION

Newport, R. I., July 28.—(AP)—Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt II, was operated upon for appendicitis today at Beaumont, her mother's summer home here. The surgeons were Dr. Joseph W. Blake, of New York, and Dr. Charles W. Stewart, of Newport. The operation was performed at 11 o'clock.

Miss Vanderbilt became ill Friday night on the eve of the wedding of her sister, Muriel, and Frederick Cameron, Jr., of Boston and Lowell, but was able to attend the ceremony.

SEVERAL INJURED IN SANTA FE WRECK

Los Angeles, July 28.—(AP)—Officials of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway made public the report of a wreck of an Elks' special train this morning 16 miles east of Gallup, N. M., in which some cars were derailed by a washout and several passengers injured.

None of the injuries was serious, the company's officials said, and the Elks resumed their journey. The Elks were members of New England lodges enroute home from Portland, Oregon.

Young Atlanta Adventurer Lost in Desert Three Days

With two dollars in his pocket, a passion for the road and an abundance of self-confidence, Alvin F. Evans, 15-year-old boy, left Atlanta several months ago with the avowed purpose of "seeing America."

He returned to Atlanta Tuesday after traversing 36 states, viewing the beauties of Yellowstone National park, talking with the movie stars of Hollywood, experiencing the thrills and horrors of three days lost in the desert land of Arizona—not to speak of two visits to Canada.

On his return he had two cents in his pocket, a plentiful supply of postal views of places of interest wrapped into an old army haversack on his back and a determination to "find a job."

"Gotta work to eat, yuh know," he ventured, "I'll look about for some thing to do here and, if it isn't to be found, I'll hike out somewhere else."

The Atlanta's experiences during his wanderings were recited graphically in a collection of newspaper clippings from various points. Principal among them were his desert adventure and the two days spent in jail at Warrenton, Mo., held as a runaway while authorities there wired his father for instructions.

"Let him go. He's plenty able to care for himself," read the answering telegram from Atlanta, and the Warrenton authorities following instructions.

During his wanderings in the desert he was for three days without food and with a scant supply of water. He was finally rescued by a party of tourists.

Undaunted by his experience, he turned north to Chicago, New York and Ontario, Canada. It was his second trip into the Dominion. From California he had gone north through Washington and Oregon to Vancouver, B. C.

Alvin's last stop on his return from New York to Atlanta was Richmond, Va. He left Richmond Sunday morning and has been on the road ever since, not counting the two nights spent in accommodating barns.

CAPTAIN TERRY DIES SUDDENLY

Captain William F. Terry, 66 years old, for 32 years a member of the Atlanta police force, died suddenly Tuesday morning at his residence, 51 Cascade avenue, as a result of cerebral hemorrhage. He was stricken about 3 o'clock and died three hours later.

Captain Terry was known as "the policeman's friend" and with his words of encouragement and ready advice aided members of the force many times. He was much loved and respected.

Captain Terry was born in Palmetto, Ga., but had lived here 40 years. He was elected to the force in 1893 and in 1911 was promoted to the rank of captain. He was known as one of the most efficient and fearless men on the force and was decorated with a gold star several years ago for conspicuous bravery in capturing a bandit who had barricaded himself in a house on Hunter street. He was an active member of the Gordon Street Baptist church and a member of Battle Hill lodge of Masons.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock from the chapel of Harry G. Poole, the Rev. W. A. Faust, of the Gordon Street Baptist church, officiating. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery. Acting Police Chief E. L. Jett has ordered all men of the morning and evening watch to report to the station at 9 o'clock to act as an honorary escort at the funeral services.

Captain Terry is survived by his widow; two daughters, Mrs. J. D. Hammond and Miss Jessie Terry, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Calder.

VICTOR M. CLUIS DIES; BODY TAKEN TO MOBILE

Victor M. Cluis, aged 63, general agent of the freight department of the Rock Island lines for 25 years, died at his residence, 696 Peachtree street, Monday night.

Mr. Cluis was well known throughout the south. He is survived by a widow and two sons, David Cluis, of Little Rock, Ark., and Fred Cluis, of New York city. He was born at Mobile, Ala., and will be buried there this morning.

Plan Mass Meeting.
A mass meeting will be held at the Grant Park Baptist church Friday night, sponsored by the Woman's Missionary society, to discuss progressive plans for the church. The program will be featured by special speakers and musical numbers.

Political Era Has Ended By Passing of Commoner, Mark Sullivan Declares

Democrats May Flock to McAdoo, but His Effectiveness Is Doubtful as to Quality.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Wilmington, Del., July 28.—To say of a man's death that it ends an era is often trite and only rarely accurate. But Bryan's death clearly symbolizes the passing of a period definitely marked on in its leadership and its issues. Within the third of a century during which Bryan had political potentialities there were three leaders, himself, Roosevelt and Wilson. In these three the people personified their policies, expressed themselves politically. In the six presidential campaigns from 1896 to 1916, inclusive, always one of these three was one of the candidates and sometimes two of them. When they were not themselves candidates, they usually determined who else should be. Bryan nominated himself three times—determined the nomination of Wilson in 1912 and that in turn determined the renomination of Wilson in 1916. Roosevelt nominated himself in 1904, nominated Taft in 1908, nominated himself again in 1912, and by causing the break in the republican line determined the presidency of Wilson in 1912 and 1916.

Period Really Ended in 1919. This period, so completely dominated by three men, really came to an end in 1919. In that year, one, Roosevelt, died; another, Wilson, became incapacitated and Bryan already had yielded the leadership of his party. These three passed and left very poor, indeed. Since 1919 America has been bereft of a leadership which had supplied practically all its varieties of political thought for a generation. It is difficult for a democracy to express itself at any time except through personalities, and the American democracy was especially dependent, through having leaned so heavily on these three during a whole voting generation.

Some of the curious turns politics has taken during these past six years have been due to the sudden and complete lapse of leadership. Just lately the republicans have come to group themselves about a new leader who came to that position by accident. The democrats have not found any such substitute to fill the places of Bryan and Wilson. Bryan's death will increase the tendency of a considerable number of democrats to gravitate toward McAdoo as the nearest equivalent they have for Bryan and Wilson. But neither in McAdoo nor anybody else in either party is there as yet any one who can supply completely that unique quality or personality which vibrates in tune with the emotions and convictions of great masses of people.

Issues Have Been Economic. The issues associated with America's era of rich and vital leadership now ended were chiefly economic. Bryan's first issue was more currency, which rested on relative scarcity of gold. That issue was ended by the young mining engineers in South Africa, who discovered the cyanide process of extracting more gold from ore. Thereafter there was a brief year or two of controversy over imperialism, but economic issues, anti-monopoly, anti-business, were the ones that engaged the country. Bryan, Roosevelt and Wilson until the war thrust upon us from abroad an adventitious issue not essentially American's own.

Must Depend on Fortune. Since the war, after a few years of the wandering clerkly that any democracy is apt to fall into with lack of leadership, we have stepped off, apparently into a period of angry snarling at each other over questions in the field of religion—questions that include the age-old difference between faith and materialism.

That sort of issue, as history shows, can give rise to no brilliant leadership. It is a dead end, leading to a dead end. These seemed in the earlier days of Bryan, Roosevelt and Wilson. For hope of being saved from that and for new issues generally we are rather dependent on accident; on what fortune may send us as the coming era's equivalent for the three leaders now gone. Paraphrasing of these three, one died at just over 61, the other two at just over 65. It is high function but a wearing one, this vibrating of personality, that which makes the tune for masses of people to follow, or responds to the vibrating of the mass. The tautening of the bow to maximum tension of supreme effort more often than nature contemplates for any normal person takes toll of years from men even so vital physically as Bryan and Roosevelt were. Bryan's latest fight, whatever others thought of it, was utterly disinterested. It sprang from the very depths of his nature. To have died in it was to Bryan's imagination far greater satisfaction than to have won any of his fights for office.

Branham Is New Chief at Howard; Keese To Dallas

Charles G. Branham, former newspaperman and at one time connected with the old S. A. Lynch enterprises, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday and assumed his duties as manager of the Howard theater, it was announced by J. J. Franklin, district manager of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation. Mr. Branham succeeds Howard Waugh, who resigned last week. Coincident with Mr. Branham's arrival, an announcement was made that Alex Keese, director of the Howard orchestra and one of the numerous musicians who last week were discharged in the clash between the musicians' union and local theater managers over a request for increased pay, will leave this morning for Dallas, Texas, to become director of the Palace theater orchestra there.

Mr. Branham, who is widely experienced in the theater business, comes here from New York from the direction of theaters for the Famous Players-Lasky corporation. When connected with the Lynch enterprise some years ago, Mr. Branham was in charge of publicity, advertising and theater management. He also served as manager of the Howard theater in Augusta and the Strand in Birmingham, and served in an executive capacity in the Dallas territory for some time.

"For the past several weeks I have been studying theater presentations in various cities of the country," Mr. Branham said, "and I come to Atlanta with a program of work which is beautiful and popular a theater as the Howard, prepared to do all in my power to make the house more comfortable and the play better. The acts of the country, well-known lands and other entertainment features in keeping with the reputation of the theater will be presented from time to time, and the early advent of 'great theater season' assures splendid screen attractions. The outlook is wonderful in every respect, and I only hope that my entire stay will be as pleasant as the first few hours I have spent in Atlanta."

U. S. Newspaperman Told To Leave Italian Capital

Chicago, July 28.—(AP)—The Chicago Tribune says that George Selles, its Rome correspondent, has been ordered to leave Italy by the Mussolini government. The information was contained in a dispatch received by the Tribune last night. Previous language from Selles last week told of demands made by the Fascist foreign office through Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher to make Selles leave Italy on the contention that he was depicting the Mussolini government "in the worst possible light," and that he presented in his dispatches the views of the political antagonists of Premier Mussolini.

The Tribune continues that on Wednesday last a group of American correspondents in Rome signed a letter asking, through Ambassador Fletcher, for a conference with Under Secretary Grandi of the Italian foreign office to present against the treatment of Selles as unfair and high-handed. They said they proposed to ask their respective newspapers to withdraw their reports from Rome if the government persisted in its action against Selles.

ACCEPTANCE OF NEGRO SCHOOL IS APPROVED

Approval of a bill accepting for the state the grant of a negro school at Granite Hill, in Hancock county, was voted by the general agriculture committee number one of house at a meeting Tuesday afternoon. The school, included in the state educational system, as proposed in the bill, will be operated as a normal school for negroes. It was stated. This school was founded in 1910 by Linton Stephens Ingraham and is valued at about $30,000. Pupils are given industrial and agricultural training and the opportunity to work their way through school. The farm the fifty-three acres of land belonging to the institution. Girls are taught cooking and sewing and have a separate department of domestic science. Ingraham, the founder, was once a slave of Linton Stephens, brother of the great Georgian, Alexander H. Stephens.

Negro Hurt in Crash.

Oscar Ezzard, 14-year-old negro boy, of 6 McGee street, suffered serious bruises and lacerations about the head and body in a collision Tuesday night between the bicycle he was riding and a police car. Ezzard was taken to the intersection of Piedmont avenue and Gilmer street. The officers stated that the boy's machine skidded under the wheels of the machine. They took him to Grady hospital, where his wounds were dressed.

Sam Little Buried.

Funeral services for Sam Little, well-known Atlanta citizen who died Sunday afternoon at the residence, 291 North Jackson street, were held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning from the chapel of Greengard & Son, helping the Rev. J. W. Caldwell officiate. Interment was in Westview cemetery.

SUICIDE IS VERDICT IN DEATH OF ERIS

Following a coroner's inquest Tuesday morning over the body of Ralph Winters Etris, 21-year-old Roswell youth, at which it was decided that his death was due to gunshot wounds in the head, self-inflicted with suicidal intent, the body was removed to Roswell for funeral services and burial.

RALPH WINTERS ETRIS.

had been predicting for some time to various friends that some awful tragedy would befall him shortly.

It also developed from the testimony of the coroner's jury that Etris lived on Piedmont road near the spot the lifeless body was found late Monday, that Etris had a pistol with him when he called on her Sunday afternoon.

"He asked me to keep it, and later got the weapon just before he left. A few minutes after he left my home Sunday night, I heard two pistol shots in rapid succession," Miss Coleman stated.

The body was found just off the Piedmont road by John Davis, a negro, who called Cecil Wilson, a young white man living nearby. Etris had been dead some time when discovered by the negro.

Although two shots were fired, only one took effect. Powder burns were visible around the wound in the head, according to the testimony of Will Rogers, embalmer at Avery & Lowmeyer, who had charge of the body.

The pistol found near the body with two expended shells, as identified by Miss Coleman as the gun that Etris had when he called on her Sunday.

Fred Taylor, a brother-in-law, testified Etris had been living at his home for the past few weeks, and that Etris had often stated that he had apprehensions of some great misfortune befalling him. He seemed in good spirits, however, Taylor told the coroner's jury.

Etris is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Etris; three brothers, Roy, Gus and Jones Etris; seven sisters, Mrs. W. C. Winkler, Mrs. Fred Taylor, Mrs. R. Albertson, Mrs. H. Strickland, Mrs. R. Booker, Mrs. A. L. Hackett and Miss Velmer Etris.

FARM LEGISLATION MAY BE LIMITED TO MARKETING BILL

Swampscott, Mass., July 28.—(AP) Discussion of the agricultural situation between President Coolidge and congressional leaders who are visiting White Court for conferences, has revealed a general agreement that farm legislation in the next congress should be limited to enactment of a cooperative marketing bill. This is the main recommendation of the president's agricultural committee remaining to be translated into law.

President Coolidge favors passage of a cooperative marketing measure, although he is of the opinion that it would be best for congress to work out the details. Senator Curtis, of Kansas, the republican leader, when here, a week ago, expressed the view that farmers could be best aided by encouraging cooperative marketing.

This opinion also was expressed yesterday by Representative Purnell, of Indiana, making republican of the house agriculture committee who called on the president.

BRYAN'S HOMEFOLK WILL PAUSE DURING FUNERAL SERVICES

Miami, Fla., July 28.—A proclamation calling upon the merchants and business community to pause from their work Friday afternoon during the funeral services for William Jennings Bryan, Coconut Grove's most distinguished citizen, will be issued today by H. Deb Justison, mayor of the town.

Twilight memorial services will be held in the unfinished Grove temple at 5 o'clock next Sunday afternoon, according to the Rev. Foster W. Taylor, pastor of the church.

The gateway which leads through the entrance of the Grove temple, Marymont, the William Jennings Bryan estate, will be draped and will be decorated by floral tributes from the citizens of Coconut Grove. An elaborate roadway will be constructed there under the direction of the architects for the church building.

14-Year-Old Boy Faces Trial Today In Buchanan Court

Buchanan, Ga., July 28.—The trial of Hoke Golden, 14-year-old boy charged with the death of his father, did not open in superior court here today as was expected, the case having been put off until Wednesday morning.

The youth, it is claimed, shot his father about one month ago, as the father was taking a nap after the noon meal, it being charged that the boy crept up to a window, rested the gun on the sill and emptied its contents into the sleeping victim's head.

The youth of the boy is to be the plea for mercy, it is said.

W. L. Hardin Honored.

W. L. Hardin, of 208 Oak street, was re-elected as national trustee of the Gideons at their national convention, held in Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Hardin has been an active Gideon for a number of years. He and Mrs. Hardin expect to go to Canada and visit Philadelphia, Boston, New York and Washington before returning to Atlanta.

New York, July 28.—The bull movement in the cotton market was arrested today by rains in the southwest, which produced enough selling pressure to break prices at one time 15 to 47 points under the previous close and 60 points below the high levels of the movement, which were reported on Monday. It rallied later on covering but still closed 33 to 36 points lower. The day was offered more liberal at the opening which was 17 to 25 points lower, and it was not until October had dropped to 24.50 and December to 25.00, that covering orders checked the decline. Interesting Bits

Sifted From News of the Day

Three Island, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—Fourteen hundred sand-tanned young North Georgians, members of Atlanta's Own, 122d Infantry, swung into the second of the annual two weeks' encampment with snap and vigor that has been outstanding during the camp. Resumption of strenuous training programs today included actual machine and automatic gun firing, tear gas bomb and grenade demonstrations, smoke screen work and howitzer bombing.

These demonstrations will continue through the week. The round of social functions which always make the annual encampment a colorful affair, got under way Tuesday night with the officers' dance, which officers of the regiment were hosts to more than 200 couples, many of them ladies from Savannah and other points, with a group of representatives from the 118th field artillery and the 55th artillery brigade of Savannah and officers and their wives from Fort Screven. The dance for noncommissioned officers was held tonight, while the Gate City guard will host to more than 150 couples Thursday night in an elaborate affair.

Colonel Eugene H. Porter, commander of the famous guard outfit, is in charge of arrangements.

Conditions Excellent.
If you think that conditions have been more ideal with the beginning of the second week than during the first week, sanitation features, low percentage of sickness and injuries, and the setting of the camp in National Guard circles in the state.

Major M. M. Burns, of Field Hospital, No. 114, stated Tuesday afternoon that the conditions of the camp were excellent. He had never seen a lower percentage of sickness and highly praised conditions here. With three exceptions, Major Burns stated, all the men were received at the infirmary in this camp, could have been treated in company streets and not one has been kept in quarters for a longer period than one day, he asserted.

Colonel Charles H. Cox, regimental commander, accompanied by Captain Thomas P. Goodwyn, camp sanitary officer, made a thorough inspection shortly before noon today at an officers' meeting at noon, both officers highly praised conditions and compliment officers upon general neatness and satisfactory sanitary conditions of the camp.

An abundance of fresh vegetables and meat is available and is being consumed in tremendous quantities by the regiment with all companies, reporting better messes than usual and much higher morale of men regarding camp conditions than has been the case several years. All camp supplies, of course, are rigidly inspected by members of the medical corps, thus insuring proper food.

Orders governing the return trip to Atlanta and other home stations of companies in the regiment were issued today, calling for arrival of Atlanta boys early Sunday morning. Colonel Cox will leave shortly after 7 o'clock and all men probably will be in their homes before 9 o'clock Sunday morning. Companies in Greifsbach, Calhoun, and McIntosh will arrive late Sunday at their home stations.

Battalion Praised.
Major A. N. Drake is battalion commander of the 122d Infantry. This battalion has drawn high praise for its performance. It is composed of men of long training and is efficiently officered.

Other battalions have attracted much attention, too, combining to make the regiment one of the best in the south, and parades on the beach in the afternoon attract several hundred visitors.

The band is the pride of the regiment, being composed of former Atlanta musicians, under John Scharf, veteran cornetist and band leader.

Only three days of the rigorous training schedule remains, breaking of camp being scheduled to begin with dawn Saturday morning. Four special trains are leaving Tuesday at intervals after 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

GERMANY HAS PAID TOTAL OF BILLION ON HER WAR DEBTS

London, July 28.—Germany has paid almost $1,000,000,000 of her war bill, according to a treasury announcement in the house of commons.

Reparations payments in merchandise and cash, distributed by the reparations commission to the end of June, amounted to approximately $100,000,000. Of this amount, Great Britain received approximately $100,000,000.

Negro Scrub Woman Grilled When $500 Disappears at Bank

Mary Glass, 40-year-old negro scrub woman at the Atlanta & Lowry National bank, was grilled at police station Tuesday night by Detectives Red Hunt and Zim Cody in connection with the theft of $500 from the bank early Tuesday morning. She lives in the rear of 7 Armstrong street.

According to Detective Hunt, an employee of the bank had left the money in a cash drawer the night before. The scrub woman, who had been working in the vicinity of the money, left the bank about 3:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, telling the porter that she was going for breakfast. Later, when the money was returned, the detectives were told.

The Glass woman emphatically denies any knowledge of the missing money's whereabouts.

GEORGIANS CAPTURE McCLELLAN HONORS

Al. Huth, Atlanta boy who was elected summer camp champion of the 4th Corps area Infantry training camp winning medals for soldierly conduct.

Out of the 12, seven are Georgia boys: W. J. Armstrong, Columbus; S. C. Cunningham, Cordele; C. M. Holmberg, Waycross; K. Huth, Atlanta; R. P. Stanley, Athens; J. N. Stynescheum, Athens; Arthur Willis, Columbus.

Two of the best "white course" students are Georgians: J. J. Anderson, Augusta, and H. N. Wise, Atlanta. R. S. McCombe, of Atlanta, is one of the two best "blue course" students.

RIFF WAR SOON TO END, SPANISH OFFICER SAYS

Tetuan, Spanish Morocco, July 28.—The Moroccan war will be over within two months, General Primo de Rivera, Spanish dictator, declared Tuesday following a conference with Marshal Petain, French commander in chief.

Petain and de Rivera had a lengthy conference during which they completed the Franco-Spanish accord and all details for collaboration in crushing Abdel-Krim's Riffians.

Ferrara, Italy.—Fashionable women here were unable to attend the noon mass at the Cathedral because the door was locked. After waiting for some time, unable to understand it, they were greeted by the posting of a notice which said:

"Mass will not be resumed unless society women dress becomingly for the house of God."

New York.—The rubber shortage apparently is inducing hijacking. Two motor cars, loaded with rubber, were entered a west side garage here, tied the manager to the wheel of a car, and drove away with two motor trucks loaded with nearly $50,000 worth of rubber.

Kalamazoo, Mich.—John Williams, 25, the first aerial runner captured in Michigan, is in jail awaiting arraignment. His plane was forced down near Galesburg. His mission was discovered when several of his 100 quarts of whiskey were wrecked along with the plane.

Springfield, Ill.—Suspicious that Lewis McGrew, a dairyman, left bottles of something stronger than milk and cream in his customers' receptacles, a federal raid on Stills and liquor were found on the McGrew farm and the ambitious dairyman was arrested.

Geneva, Ill.—One hundred girls in the state home for girls are on soft diet. They have just been separated from the rest of the girls, and are being received at the infirmary in this camp, could have been treated in company streets and not one has been kept in quarters for a longer period than one day, he asserted.

Announcing the Columbia Trust & Realty Co.

Organized Thru the Merging of CALHOUN CO.

J. T. CARSON & CO.

ATLANTA MORTGAGE CO.

These Three Well Known Firms
Consolidated to Afford the Public a

Comprehensive Service Through One Organization

Real Estate Department

Furnishing a service in the buying and selling of real estate that is without a peer in Atlanta. With listings of choice property in all sections of the city, including home business and income property, and with men of long experience and accurate knowledge of realty values, the real estate department is unusually well equipped to serve its clients. Besides general real estate, it is handling the largest close-in subdivision in Atlanta . . . Collier Hills . . . a beautiful home development located on Peachtree Road, just past Brookwood Station. The Columbia Trust & Realty Co. feels that the following list of realty salesmen is a most important factor contributing to their success and popularity:

O. D. Bartlett, Manager
Frank Armistead
J. C. Childs
Richard Hickey
J. E. Hickey, Jr.
A. J. McBride

H. A. McKinnon
H. A. Minor
C. U. Parkman
F. B. Reese
J. W. Vaughn
John A. Dailey

Department of Lands

G. Ledsinger, Manager.

Operating in Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, South Carolina and in Cuba. Handling a great variety of lands, selling at wholesale only. Mineral and timber lands in bodies ranging from 1,000 acres to 300,000 acres. Young pine lands for reforestation; hunting and fishing preserves. A wide variety of farms, well selected and situated for agriculture, horticulture; irrigated lands for trucking and stable crops; stock farms, dairying and poultry; pecan groves in tracts from 5 acres to 1,000 acres—well selected, and all in Southwest Georgia. With experts to care for the trees, this department is cooperating in a way to make of the commercial pecan one of Georgia's best and most important industries.

Rent and Lease Department

Walter M. Wilson, Manager

A well-rounded department of seasoned and experienced men. Capable of being of untold assistance in solving your problem. Mr. Wilson is assisted by:

Raymond Inglett, Central Leases.
Henry W. Lyon, Central Leases.
Charles W. Carey, Lease Department.
W. M. McCarron, Manager of Collections.
W. H. Rhudy, Collection Department.
Miss Florine Webb, Stenographer.

ACCOUNTING DEPARTMENT

L. A. Woods, Cashier. J. R. Bielling, Assistant Cashier
The collections and disbursements of the funds for all departments is under the very able direction of Mr. L. A. Woods and his assistant, Mr. Bielling, both of whom have had a great many years of actual experience in all departments.

Loan Department

This splendidly equipped department has successfully operated for 6 years, since its installation by J. T. Carson & Co. Since the company reorganization the loan department has even better facilities for handling loans on improved real estate in Atlanta and vicinity; and, because of using its own funds in most instances, is enabled to give prompt service in closing loans. Unusually attractive loans made that will appeal to the home owner. Representing the following companies as loan correspondents: The Manhattan Life Insurance Co., of New York, N. Y. The Maccabees, of Detroit, Mich. Jefferson & Standard Life Insurance Co., of Greensboro, N. C. Mortgage & Securities Co., of New Orleans, La. And numerous private clients over the country.

The Personnel:

H. N. Pannell, Manager
W. A. Gregg, Jr. Mrs. C. B. Copyers

Life Insurance Department

Chas. E. Bradshaw, Mgr.

We are in a position to render a service to the insuring public which we believe it will be impossible to obtain elsewhere. We represent several of the best life insurance companies doing business, which enables us to fit a policy to the insured's real needs, rates and policy provisions not being the same in all companies. We specialize in business and group insurance, and can also furnish you any and all information regarding your inheritance taxes.

Fire Insurance Department

(Fire, Casualty and Surety Bonding)

Under the able management of Mr. E. P. Eve, has done remarkable business, and has fast come to the front as one of the leading insurance agencies in the entire south. Established about 12 years ago, it has facilities for handling all lines of auto, plate-glass, burglary and workmen's compensation; also equipped to execute bonds of all description on short notice. Representing five old established Fire Companies, three Auto, Fire and Theft Companies. Also representing the Georgia Casualty Co., a local institution. General agents for Casualty Insurance Co., of New York. In this department are:

E. P. Eve, Manager
Mrs. A. S. Akers,

Miss Margaret Miller,
Miss Louise Pierson.
